West To Propose German Representation At Parley

Way Opened For Possible Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Western formula for a Big Four foreign ministers conference about Germany provides for including German representatives as advisers.

This opens the way for possible compromise with the Soviet Union on German participation.

In suggesting participation by German representatives, the Western powers would be thinking primarily of West Germans. They would be fully aware, however, that to the Russians the reference would mean Communist East German officials.

Both State Department and White House informants say Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will provide the guidelines for U.S. policy except for a few days around the time of his impending operation for hernia. The operation may be delayed until next week.

Dulles Retirement Ruled Out

The bwhite House Wednesday denied emphatically speculation that President Eisenhower has discussed with associates the possible retirement of Dulles. The denial covered published reports that the President had discussed with Republican leaders a number of potential successors.

The White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, recalled that he had termed such speculation "completely cockeyed."

The new Western note specifies that the prospective foreign ministers conference should deal with all aspects of the German problem. Thus the Soviets could bring up their proposed plan for confederation and a neutralized Germany, and the West could press for reunification under a modified free elections formula.

The note will reject the Jan. 10 proposal by the Soviet Union for a 38-nation conference to create a neutralized Germany or for confederation of West and East Germany.

While the note to Moscow will not be made public until after its delivery, it was described as leaving open the question of time and place for a foreign ministers meeting. But Western diplomats are being instructed that the United States, Britain and France are not prepared to meet behind the Iron Curtain in Warsaw or Prague.

Alleged 'Hoods' Clam Up At Coin Machine Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four alleged racketeers balked Wednesday at telling Senate investigators anything about their connections with the multibillion-dollar coin machine business.

Refusing to talk on grounds they might incriminate themselves were John Vitale of St. Louis, Frank Zito of Springfield, Ill., Mike Genovese of Gibsonia, Pa., and Joseph Salardino of Denver.

The Senate Labor-Management Committee got answers out of Raymond Patriarca of Providence, R.I. Patriarca, who said he is half owner of a cigaret vending machine business in Providence, acknowledged a criminal record. But he denied any hoodlum acted as a business agent for his machines.

The committee is embarked on an effort to expose what it says is a conspiracy by gangland characters and some labor union officials to cow legitimate businessmen and control the jukebox, pinball and vending machine business.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy described Vitale, Zito, Genovese and Salardino as racketeers.

Vitale is "probably the leading figure of the Mafia" in the St. Louis area, Kennedy said. The Mafia is a criminal society believed to operate out of Italy.

Vitale refused to say whether he has attempted to use his Anthony Novelty Co. and related firms in a bid to control the tavern industry in St. Louis County. A county detective testified Tuesday that police had thwarted such a move.

Waitress "Tips" New York Bank With Own $1,000

NEW YORK (AP)—And now, it seems, dames are robbing banks just for the fun of it, with money no object.

Police said a 42-year-old Queens waitress got $1,000 Wednesday by threatening a teller, then handed the money back to another teller two windows away.

"I just wanted to see how easy it is to stick up a bank," officers quoted the woman. They identified her as Mrs. Ann Thompson.

No charge was placed against her immediately. Police said she had been drinking.

Loomis Warns Of Rail Battle, Possible Strike

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The possibility of a national rail transportation tieup was raised Wednesday by Daniel Loomis, president of the Assn. of American Railroads.

"A strike could come sometime early next year. We cannot bury our heads in the sand," Loomis told the National Assn. of Shippers Advisory Boards.

At the same time Loomis said the rail industry planned a head-and-head fight with unions to change some rules governing railroad workers.

He charged "featherbedding" was ruining the railroads and added "featherbedding was a festering and cancerous growth."

The industry spokesman suggested union leaders join railroad management and ask President Eisenhower to name a nonpartisan commission to study work rules.

From Washington, A. E. Lyon, secretary-treasurer of the Railway Labor Executives Assn., said Loomis' comments sounded like the opening gun in upcoming labor negotiations. Lyon rejected the idea of a proposed governmental commission.

Lyon, speaking for the association which represents all railway labor unions, said Loomis was simply trying to lower wages and reduce employment.

Loomis punctuated his talk of a possible strike by pointing out that a three-year moratorium on changes in work rules expires Oct. 31. The peace period was agreed to in 1956 by rail brotherhoods and management.

Featherbedding — defined by Loomis as "pay for work not done, for services not performed" —costs the rail industry more than 500 million dollars a year, he said.

"I am not attacking railroad labor," Loomis insisted. "I am, however, attacking and condemning the deadly rules our workers must work by. Our goal boils down to this: a fair day's work for a fair day's pay."

Tornado Death Toll Set At 21

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The extent of the splintered wreckage gave rise to a question Wednesday: How could this crowded city, caught without warning in the night, escape with no greater casualties

Twenty-one died in the tornado that struck St. Louis at 2:12 a.m. Tuesday, and 70 remain in hospitals.

Officials said there is reason to hope the figures will go no higher. There were many conflicting reports, but Civil Defense officials have been unable to establish that anyone is missing.

The Insurance Board of St. Louis estimated damage at 12 million dollars.

Clean-up operations were in full swing. City officials said the clean-up in the hardest hit sector will require several days.

Cyprus Plan Gets Blessing Of Makarios

Greek And Turk Premiers Reach Peace Agreement

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Greece and Turkey agreed Wednesday on a constitution designed to give independence and peace to the British-ruled island of Cyprus.

By nightfall their plan for a republic of Cyprus won the eagerly awaited blessing of the British-exiled Greek Orthodox primate of Cyprus, Archbishop Makarios.

The immediate hope is to end the nearly four years of bloodshed in triangular battles among British, Greek and Turkish forces and guerrillas.

If all goes well the rival Cypriot communities of Greek and Turk origin may live in peace, sharing responsibilities but keeping their communal identities.

Premiers Reach Accord

The strife centered about demands of four-fifths of the eastern Mediterranean island's population of Greek origin for complete integration with Greece while Turkey demanded partition of the country for the other fifth of the half-million islanders, who speak Turkish. The island is Great Britain's military outpost in the Mideast.

The accord was reached here in hard bargaining between Premiers Constantine Karamanlis of Greece and Adnan Menderes of Turkey. They sealed it with handshakes and went their ways to further settle the future of the island.

Premier Karamanlis flew home to Athens and the suspenseful meeting with Archbishop Makarios.

Britain's blessing seemed assured. The initial reaction in Cyprus and Turkey seemed reserved.

Provisions Of Accord

The Greek Orthodox leader might construe as a limit on Cypriot independence these two provisions:

1. A permanent ban on the island's ever joining Greece or Turkey.

2. A small Turkish troop contingent will join a much larger body of Greek soldiers and the British garrisons in occupying the island's strategic military bases.

Other sections provide for a Greek Cypriot president and a Turkish Cypriot vice president, each with a limited veto on foreign, defense and internal security affairs; a legislative assembly, 70 per cent Greek and 30 per cent Turkish; and separate Greek and Turkish communal assemblies to handle internal matters such as education.

Army Balloon Breaks Record

FORT MONMOUTH, N.J. (UPI) — An experimental Army weather balloon soared to an altitude of almost 28 miles to set a new world's record for manned or unmanned balloons, it was announced Wednesday.

The Army said the balloon reached an altitude of 146,000 feet after its launching from the U.S. Army Signal Research and Development Laboratory here on Jan. 30.

The balloon reached an altitude several thousand feet above previous records and to mark the highest established altitude ever achieved by a balloon, manned or unmanned, the Army said.

Instruments in the balloon recorded 85-degrees below zero at an altitude of 10 miles and a warming trend as the balloon soared higher. It read 40 degrees above zero at its peak altitude, the Army said.

Search For Trawler, 16 Men, Abandoned

HALIFAX (AP) — The search for the Newfoundland trawler Blue Wave was abandoned Wednesday following discovery of two dories and a lifeboat near the ship's last known position.

The 289-ton vessel carried 16 men.

The Blue Wave disappeared Monday after sending a distress signal saying she was in danger of capsizing about 65 miles off Cape St. Mary's.

A U.S. Coast Guard cutter was dispatched to a point about 90 miles northeast of Newfoundland to investigate reports that an overturned vessel, believed to be the Icelandic trawler Juli, had been sighted.

The cutter found a trawler, not the Juli, right side up and in no trouble.

Emergency Is Declared In South Peru

Raging River Tops Wall, Rips Levee; Ohio Streams Drop

By The Associated Press

Floodwaters were rapidly rising in at least one Indiana city late Wednesday while crisp winter weather seemed to offer a respite to parts of flood-weary Ohio.

A state of emergency was declared in South Peru, Ind., when the Wabash River topped a flood wall and tore through hastily erected sandbag barriers.

Police Chief H. O. Bradley said the river was rising four to six inches an hour. He said he didn't know if all of the estimated 125 persons who lived in the area affected by the levee break had been evacuated.

Meantime, Arctic air and generally clear skies covered most of the country east of the Rockies. Some snow was reported in the northeast.

In Ohio, a sharp freeze Tuesday accompanied by occasional snow flurries helped slow the runoff into streams in northern sections of the state.

Ice Gorge Blasted

A National Guard demolition team blasted away at an ice gorge nearly a mile long north of Fremont, Ohio.

The ice in the Sandusky River prevented floodwaters from emptying through marshy areas into Sandusky Bay on Lake Erie.

Fremont, still in a state of emergency from a flood in January, had one to two feet of water in its business district. An estimated 1,000 of the city's 16,000 population were forced from their homes by the second flood. Another 200 to 500 evacuees still are homeless from the January flood.

Upstream to the south, another ice jam five feet thick in places, was being held back by Ballville Dam. If this should break loose, it could cause serious damage to the flooded business district.

Newark, Ohio, a city of 35,000, lost its drinking water when the waterworks dam on the Licking River gave way. All Newark industries were shut down, schools closed and the hospital was put on an emergency basis.

Although the floodwaters at Fremont were a foot higher than during the January flood, the situation throughout the state seemed less critical.

Wabash Begins Receding

In Indiana, 350 families were forced from their homes along the upper Wabash, from Bluffton to Lafayette.

The river crested at Wabash Wednesday at its highest level in 46 years, and then began receding. The floodwaters spread out seven to eight blocks wide on the west side of the city.

A 10-mile ice gorge stacked up 35 feet high below Georgetown, near Logansport.

The Weather Bureau said present indications are that flooding on the Wabash River below Wabash will produce the highest stages since 1943 at most points and that serious damage is likely.

Elsewhere in northern Indiana and Ohio floodwaters generally were receding. Clear and cold weather gave hope that the worst was over for the present.

Ike Quotes Lincoln In Seeming Appeal For Budget Balance

By The Associated Press

President Eisenhower led the nation's tribute to Abraham Lincoln Wednesday night on the eve of the 150th anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

The 34th President headed a list of guests for a memorial dinner honoring the 16th President in a Washington hotel.

In a tribute, Eisenhower said Lincoln belongs not only to the ages but to humanity. "Immortality is his in the hearts of all who love freedom everywhere in the world," the President said.

Earlier, the President, in an indirect appeal for maintaining a balanced budget and for economy in government, cited the philosophy of Lincoln.

Eisenhower's indirect allusion came in reciting some words of Lincoln saying how he was against borrowing money and "an overwhelming, crushing system."

The birthday eve homage opened a 24-hour period of meetings and ceremonies that form the peak point of the Lincoln sesquicentennial year across the nation.

Gov. A. B. Chandler will hang a wreath Thursday on the door of the log cabin near Hodgenville, Ky., where Lincoln was born Feb. 12, 1809. New one-cent Lincoln stamps will be placed on sale in Hodgenville.

The Congress will meet in joint session in Washington Thursday to hear a speech by Carl Sandburg, Lincoln biographer, and a reading of the Gettysburg Address by Frederic March, the actor.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin in separated Germany will speak Thursday night in Springfield, Ill. It was there almost 101 years ago—June 16, 1858 — that Lincoln gave a speech that included this line: "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

Lincoln, at the time, was making a bid for a U.S. Senate seat.

U.S. Warned Flu Outbreak Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although no outbreaks of influenza have been reported in this country, the Public Health Service Wednesday warned state health officers of increasing reports of flu outbreaks in Europe.

Surgeon Gen. Leroy E. Burney said introduction of the disease into the United States is probable. He asked health officers to report any influenza cases promptly.

Burney again recommended that private physicians consider vaccinating individual patients or groups who have a special risk, such as the aged, the chronically ill, and pregnant women.

Little Rock Mayor's Plea To Ike For Troops Bared

WASHINGTON (AP)—The mayor of Little Rock, Ark., was disclosed Wednesday to have pleaded for the federal troops that President Eisenhower sent there in 1957.

Until now, for all the general public could tell, the bitterly controversial decision was the Eisenhower administration's own idea. It has hurt his party in the South.

Wednesday, the Justice Department released a document covering advice which Herbert Brownell, then the attorney general, gave Eisenhower on what to do in the crisis resulting from opposition in Little Rock to school integration orders.

The opposition, at its worst, included mob violence.

The Brownell papers included a telegram to the President from Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann on Sept. 24, 1957:

"The immediate need for federal troops is urgent . . . I am pleading to you as president of the United States in the interest of humanity, law and order, and the cause of democracy worldwide to provide the necessary federal troops within several hours."

At the time, Mayor Mann refused to confirm or deny that he had requested troops.

Mann was not immediately available Wednesday for questioning on the disclosure of his appeal.

There were reports in Little Rock back in those tempestuous days that Mann had sent such a telegram, addressed to Brownell. The Justice Department denied this. The denial was technically true, since the request now is shown to have gone directly to the White House.

Pan Am Maintenance Workers Vote Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pan American World Airways maintenance workers have rejected a 25-cent hourly wage increase offer and authorized a strike on or before March 1, it was announced Wednesday.

The Transport Workers Union, which represents 7,000 maintenance workers including 1,000 at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile testing range, said the members voted 4 to 1 authorizing the union to call a walkout.

A mail vote of 1,000 flight stewards and stewardesses has not been completed, the union said.

Pretty Singer's Mother Vows To Shun Wedding

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Singer Anna Maria Alberghetti said on Wednesday she would marry composer-arranger Buddy Bregman in April and still expected her mother to attend the wedding despite the older woman's opposition to the match.

"A lot of parents don't approve of their children's weddings," said the pretty Italian - born singer. "But I think mother wants me to be happy and I'm sure she will be when she sees how happy Buddy and I will be."

However, Mrs. Vittoria Alberghetti declared, "I don't like a divorced man for my daughter. I was born in another country where we don't think at all to marry a man that is divorced.

"I will not attend the ceremony," she insisted. "I said I was going to be sick the day the marriage took place. I am still going to be sick."

Although Bregman, 28, was married once before and is of the Jewish faith, Anna Maria said she planned to marry in the Roman Catholic Church.

The 22-year-old singer explained that Bregman's former wife, Gloria Haley, was married in the Catholic faith before the union with the composer. That, in the eyes of the Catholic Church, made the Bregman-Haley match invalid as the church still recognized only Miss Haley's original marriage.

It was understood, however, Roman Catholic advisors had told Miss Alberghetti and Bregman that they would still have to obtain permission through church channels to have their marriage valid in the eyes of the church.

DuPont Heir Sued By Wife

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—The wife of William Henry du Pont, potential heir to a 56-million-dollar chemical fortune, has filed a complaint asking support for herself and their three children. She said her husband has given her an average of $14 a week since they separated last Oct. 27.

The wife, Debra Eldredge du Pont, 29, brought the suit in Family Court Tuesday, asking reasonable support payments or a single sum. She did not specify an amount.

The complaint said she left her husband on the advice of doctors and went with her children to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eldrege, of Bryn Mawr, a Philadelphia suburb.

DuPont, 31, is the son of William duPont Jr., whose father left a residuary estate in 1928, which, the suit stated, produces an annual income of $7,095,208.

Mrs. duPont said she underwent major surgery last month at a cost of about $2,000 and that her husband had refused to pay any of the expense.

The suit says the family's annual budget before the separation was $22,200, but since then duPont has sent his wife only three payments—$66 on Nov. 1, $66.25 on Dec. 1 and $63 on Jan. 1.

$420,000 Makes 'Life Miserable'

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—"Life is miserable since we got this money," said Billy Stranaghan.

Just a week ago he pocketed 150,000 pounds — $420,000 — as his share of a record soccer pool win.

"We are afraid to go out," he said. "If we stay in, the telephone never stops ringing with calls from people who want to sell us something we don't want.

"Begging letters from all parts of the world pour in every day.

"We're hermits in our own little home. The only thing to do is move from the house where we've lived for 25 years and go to a secret address in the country."

Stranaghan, 63 years old and partly blind, shared last week's record pool win of 300,000 pounds — $840,000 — with his Irish neighbor, Jimmy Gault.

Gault sent in the winning ticket and went to London to collect the check.

U.S. Warned Flu Outbreak Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although no outbreaks of influenza have been reported in this country, the Public Health Service Wednesday warned state health officers of increasing reports of flu outbreaks in Europe.

Surgeon Gen. Leroy E. Burney said introduction of the disease into the United States is probable. He asked health officers to report any influenza cases promptly.

Burney again recommended that private physicians consider vaccinating individual patients or groups who have a special risk, such as the aged, the chronically ill, and pregnant women.

$420,000 Makes 'Life Miserable'

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—"Life is miserable since we got this money," said Billy Stranaghan.

Just a week ago he pocketed 150,000 pounds — $420,000 — as his share of a record soccer pool win.

"We are afraid to go out," he said. "If we stay in, the telephone never stops ringing with calls from people who want to sell us something we don't want.

"Begging letters from all parts of the world pour in every day.

"We're hermits in our own little home. The only thing to do is move from the house where we've lived for 25 years and go to a secret address in the country."

Stranaghan, 63 years old and partly blind, shared last week's record pool win of 300,000 pounds — $840,000 — with his Irish neighbor, Jimmy Gault.

Gault sent in the winning ticket and went to London to collect the check.

Tornado Death Toll Set At 21

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The extent of the splintered wreckage gave rise to a question Wednesday: How could this crowded city, caught without warning in the night, escape with no greater casualties

Twenty-one died in the tornado that struck St. Louis at 2:12 a.m. Tuesday, and 70 remain in hospitals.

Officials said there is reason to hope the figures will go no higher. There were many conflicting reports, but Civil Defense officials have been unable to establish that anyone is missing.

The Insurance Board of St. Louis estimated damage at 12 million dollars.

Clean-up operations were in full swing. City officials said the clean-up in the hardest hit sector will require several days.

Army Balloon Breaks Record

FORT MONMOUTH, N.J. (UPI) — An experimental Army weather balloon soared to an altitude of almost 28 miles to set a new world's record for manned or unmanned balloons, it was announced Wednesday.

The Army said the balloon reached an altitude of 146,000 feet after its launching from the U.S. Army Signal Research and Development Laboratory here on Jan. 30.

The balloon reached an altitude several thousand feet above previous records and to mark the highest established altitude ever achieved by a balloon, manned or unmanned, the Army said.

Instruments in the balloon recorded 85-degrees below zero at an altitude of 10 miles and a warming trend as the balloon soared higher. It read 40 degrees above zero at its peak altitude, the Army said.

Little Rock Mayor's Plea To Ike For Troops Bared

WASHINGTON (AP)—The mayor of Little Rock, Ark., was disclosed Wednesday to have pleaded for the federal troops that President Eisenhower sent there in 1957.

Until now, for all the general public could tell, the bitterly controversial decision was the Eisenhower administration's own idea. It has hurt his party in the South.

Wednesday, the Justice Department released a document covering advice which Herbert Brownell, then the attorney general, gave Eisenhower on what to do in the crisis resulting from opposition in Little Rock to school integration orders.

The opposition, at its worst, included mob violence.

The Brownell papers included a telegram to the President from Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann on Sept. 24, 1957:

"The immediate need for federal troops is urgent . . . I am pleading to you as president of the United States in the interest of humanity, law and order, and the cause of democracy worldwide to provide the necessary federal troops within several hours."

At the time, Mayor Mann refused to confirm or deny that he had requested troops.

Mann was not immediately available Wednesday for questioning on the disclosure of his appeal.

There were reports in Little Rock back in those tempestuous days that Mann had sent such a telegram, addressed to Brownell. The Justice Department denied this. The denial was technically true, since the request now is shown to have gone directly to the White House.

Pan Am Maintenance Workers Vote Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pan American World Airways maintenance workers have rejected a 25-cent hourly wage increase offer and authorized a strike on or before March 1, it was announced Wednesday.

The Transport Workers Union, which represents 7,000 maintenance workers including 1,000 at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile testing range, said the members voted 4 to 1 authorizing the union to call a walkout.

A mail vote of 1,000 flight stewards and stewardesses has not been completed, the union said.

Search For Trawler, 16 Men, Abandoned

HALIFAX (AP) — The search for the Newfoundland trawler Blue Wave was abandoned Wednesday following discovery of two dories and a lifeboat near the ship's last known position.

The 289-ton vessel carried 16 men.

The Blue Wave disappeared Monday after sending a distress signal saying she was in danger of capsizing about 65 miles off Cape St. Mary's.

A U.S. Coast Guard cutter was dispatched to a point about 90 miles northeast of Newfoundland to investigate reports that an overturned vessel, believed to be the Icelandic trawler Juli, had been sighted.

The cutter found a trawler, not the Juli, right side up and in no trouble.

Pretty Singer's Mother Vows To Shun Wedding

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Singer Anna Maria Alberghetti said on Wednesday she would marry composer-arranger Buddy Bregman in April and still expected her mother to attend the wedding despite the older woman's opposition to the match.

"A lot of parents don't approve of their children's weddings," said the pretty Italian - born singer. "But I think mother wants me to be happy and I'm sure she will be when she sees how happy Buddy and I will be."

However, Mrs. Vittoria Alberghetti declared, "I don't like a divorced man for my daughter. I was born in another country where we don't think at all to marry a man that is divorced.

"I will not attend the ceremony," she insisted. "I said I was going to be sick the day the marriage took place. I am still going to be sick."

Although Bregman, 28, was married once before and is of the Jewish faith, Anna Maria said she planned to marry in the Roman Catholic Church.

The 22-year-old singer explained that Bregman's former wife, Gloria Haley, was married in the Catholic faith before the union with the composer. That, in the eyes of the Catholic Church, made the Bregman-Haley match invalid as the church still recognized only Miss Haley's original marriage.

It was understood, however, Roman Catholic advisors had told Miss Alberghetti and Bregman that they would still have to obtain permission through church channels to have their marriage valid in the eyes of the church.

DuPont Heir Sued By Wife

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—The wife of William Henry du Pont, potential heir to a 56-million-dollar chemical fortune, has filed a complaint asking support for herself and their three children. She said her husband has given her an average of $14 a week since they separated last Oct. 27.

The wife, Debra Eldredge du Pont, 29, brought the suit in Family Court Tuesday, asking reasonable support payments or a single sum. She did not specify an amount.

The complaint said she left her husband on the advice of doctors and went with her children to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eldrege, of Bryn Mawr, a Philadelphia suburb.

DuPont, 31, is the son of William duPont Jr., whose father left a residuary estate in 1928, which, the suit stated, produces an annual income of $7,095,208.

Mrs. duPont said she underwent major surgery last month at a cost of about $2,000 and that her husband had refused to pay any of the expense.

The suit says the family's annual budget before the separation was $22,200, but since then duPont has sent his wife only three payments—$66 on Nov. 1, $66.25 on Dec. 1 and $63 on Jan. 1.

President Defends Plan To Up Interest Rate On REA Loans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday that groups favored with government subsidies must not insist on continuing the help when they can manage on their own.

Eisenhower made the plea at a meeting of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Assn. in defending his proposal to increase interest rates for Rural Electrification Administration loans.

The administration is unhappy about a situation in which the government makes loans to REA projects for less than it has to pay to borrow the money in the first place.

The President said REA has made great strides in bringing electricity to farmers and "is no longer an infant enterprise."

"Now in your prideful maturity, it is my earnest desire to see the local enterprises you represent become even stronger and more self-sufficient," Eisenhower said.

Some members of the cooperatives appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee to uphold their program and urge continued government backing for it.

They said Eisenhower's recommendations would more than double the present rate on REA loans—fixed by law at 2 per cent—or force them to go to Wall Street for the money.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) assured the witnesses that "as long as you fight a clean fight, you're going to have a lot of support here in Congress."

Eisenhower said in his speech that America "at this very moment is engaged in a great debate on the role of government in the lives of her citizens."

This involves, he said, a choice between a government living within its means or following "the ages past—the route of deficit financing, of inflation, of taxes ever rising, until all initiative and self-reliance enterprise are destroyed."

Russell Hints Of Civil Rights Bill Filibuster

ATLANTA (UPI) — Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) Wednesday night hinted broadly he was ready to use "a plain old simple filibuster" against proposed new civil rights legislation in Congress.

Russell addressed a standing-room-only crowd of nearly 2,000 persons at a $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner staged by the States Rights Council of Georgia, a private segregationist corporation.

Amid rebel whoops Russell declared that anyone who contends the new presidential civil rights proposals to Congress are "mild . . . can tell that to the Marines."

"I will oppose this bill as long as I have the physical strength to speak or can find standing room under any rule in the Senate," Russell said. "I will use every means at my command, whether it be called . . . a last-ditch resistance or a plain old simple filibuster."

Former politician Roy Harris, council president from Augusta, Ga., said the council had ready a $55,000 war chest for its battle against integration.

Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.) Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver and Lt.-Gov. Garland Byrd were among other speakers before the cheering crowd.

Hypnosis Helps Actress

CHICAGO (AP)—Linda Darnell of the movies used hypnotism for help with a stage role Tuesday night.

Miss Darnell, emotionally upset and fretting over unlearned lines as the date for her opening approached, telephoned a Beverly Hills, Calif., physician for aid.

The doctor came to Chicago by plane Sunday to help the actress memorize her lines through hypnosis.

For three days, while Miss Darnell was in periods of deep sleep, a reader recited her lines to her. Lines and stage cues were implanted in her mind while she was in the hypnotic stage of heightened susceptibility.

Next she went over the script under hypnosis to pin down a mental characterization of the role of the woman artist she was to play. During the trance the actress was told lines would come to her easily and naturally.

Her play, "Late Love," opened on schedule Tuesday night for a two-week stand in the Drury Lane Theater.

The experiment appeared to be a success. One reviewer said: "Miss Darnell was entrancing rather than in a trance. All Miss Darnell's lines are perfect."

Said Miss Darnell: "I never felt so secure about playing a role. Hypnosis has helped me feel this part completely."

Milk Hearing Brings Flurry Of Fireworks

BALTIMORE (AP)—The gentlemanly pace of a Maryland milk price hearing erupted into a brief flurry of fireworks Wednesday over sale of Baltimore milk in Western Maryland.

A Pennsylvania dealer who sells in sections of Frederick and Carroll County complained about 39 and 41 cent half-gallon containers of milk out of Baltimore.

Richard Bankert, of Royale Dairy at Hanover, Pa., said his firm has to sell the milk at 51 cents because it pays its farmers more.

John J. Beatty, of Sealtest Foods, Baltimore, jumped in to ask if Bankert didn't consider marketing conditions disorderly, which is a main contention of backers of a milk price order. Bankert opposes the proposed order.

Counsel for Bankert's dairy, Willis F. Daniels, then interrupted heatedly to ask if the market had been orderly until Baltimore milk came in. Bankert said it had been.

William Sadler, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Inc., also cross-examined Bankert on this general point. The cooperative is proposing a federal milk pricing order for all or part of 18 Maryland counties and Baltimore City.

Sadler asked Bankert if he knew his competitors would have to pay the same price for milk as his firm "wouldn't it ease competition?" Bankert indicated he felt it would.

Bankert and several other Southern Pennsylvania dairy operators gave testimony Wednesday designed to show why they should not be covered by the proposed Maryland milk price order.

They testified that Pennsylvania and local dairies did the bulk of the milk business in the Maryland area they served and it should not be included in a Baltimore area milk pricing order.

Some also said that most of their competition in Pennsylvania would not be regulated under the Maryland order.

Lincoln, As Congressman, Far From Spectacular

WASHINGTON (AP)—In some ways Congress hasn't changed since Abraham Lincoln was a one-term representative 110 years ago. It investigated things then and it's still in the investigating business.

But in many other ways time has brought enormous changes to Capitol Hill.

What, for example, would Lincoln have thought of the batteries of television cameras that will cover Thursday's joint session of the House and Senate—a joint session called to mark his 150th birthday anniversary?

Abe Lincoln was a gangling, bony, clean-shaven man not yet 40 when he was elected as a Whig to the 30th Congress. He represented an Illinois district that still was pretty much in the backwoods. From 1847 to 1849, Lincoln held that House seat, and did not try for renomination.

He didn't make much of a dent while in Congress, giving little indication that he would be president of the United States 12 years later.

For a period, he was a member of a committee that investigated what had been done about erecting a marble monument ordered by Congress to commemorate the surrender of British forces at Yorktown in the Revolutionary War. The monument eventually was built.

House records show Lincoln served on two regular committees, one dealing with War Department spending and the other concerned with post offices and post roads.

He introduced four bills and one resolution—and his batting average in getting action on them was pretty good for a freshman congressman.

Pope's Peace Appeal Marks Lent Opening

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII observed Ash Wednesday with an appeal for peace to avoid "homicide and suicide" throughout the world.

The Pope commemorated the beginning of Lent Wednesday by addressing about 10,000 Roman Catholic pilgrims who assembled in St. Peter's Square. He spoke through a microphone placed at the window of his private apartment in the apostolic palace.

In his appeal, the Pontiff repeated words used by Pope Pius XI in a message to Italian clergy which was prepared but never released on the eve of World War II.

1958 Poorest Year In Chrysler History

NEW YORK (AP) — Chrysler Corp. turned in a profit in the last quarter of 1958 but it wasn't enough to prevent the company from experiencing its worst loss in history.

The country's third largest auto maker Wednesday reported a loss of $33,824,565 last year. That compared with net income of $119,952,406, equal to $13.75 a share, in 1957.

In the final 1958 quarter, when 1959 model cars were introduced, Chrysler earned approximately 11 million dollars or $1.30 a share. In the same period of 1957 earnings totaled 16 million or $1.88 a share.

L. L. Colbert, president, blamed the poor 1958 record on a sharp drop in sales resulting from the recession.

Alpine Village's Fate Hanging By Thread

HERBRIGGEN, Switzerland — (UPI) — The fate of this landslide - threatened alpine village hung by a thread of ice Wednesday.

A huge mass of ice and rocks, which split off from the mountain towering over Herbriggen four days ago, still clung precariously to the edge of a sudden drop-off. Authorities believed the vast landslide was held 4,650 feet above the village by a band of ice.

Just how long it would be before the tons of ice, rock and dirt cascaded down the slope into the settlement of houses and other buildings was a perplexing question to the town's 215 residents who have vacated their homes.

Most of the residents watched the vast slide all day as it inched its way down the slope.

Bill Drafted To Create State Milk Commission

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A proposal for creating a Maryland milk commission is expected to be introduced in the House of Delegates next week.

Del. McElwee (D-Washington), one of the co-sponsors, said Wednesday the 52-page measure is being prepared by the Department of Legislative Reference but won't be ready for introduction before next week.

The legislation, patterned after Pennsylvania's milk control law, would set up a three-man commission to control milk prices at the farm, dairy and retail levels.

In current hearings in Baltimore, the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Inc. is seeking an order from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to set $5.70 per hundredweight as the price dairies would have to pay farmers for milk nine months of the year. From April through June it would be $5.10.

McElwee said establishment of this federal market would protect only the farmer. He said a state milk commission would protect the distributors (dairies) and consumers as well as the farmers.

Last year the wholesale price of milk in Maryland ranged roughly between $5.50 and $5.90. Cooperative officials acknowledge that price fixing might lead to boosts in the retail price.

McElwee said his proposal would eliminate the need for federal controls. If such controls were established before the commission, the highest prices fixed by either agency would prevail.

McElwee, the son of a farmer, operates a Hagerstown dairy.

"At present, outside of controls established by the cooperatives, it is a dog-eat-dog situation," McElwee said.

West Va. Police Hold Baltimore Kidnap Suspect

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—A 24-year-old Baltimore man was held here for Maryland authorities today for questioning in the abduction of two women and theft of two automobiles.

State Police Sgt. Ronald C. Culp said that he and Trooper Robert L. Cutlip picked up Darryl Lee Scott, formerly of Chambersburg, Pa., as he left the Newton D. Baker Veterans Hospital near Martinsburg. Scott has been working as a furnace salesman in Baltimore.

Culk said Scott offered no resistance and was unarmed. The youth said he had been visiting his father in the hospital.

Scott will be returned to the Maryland State Police Barracks at Waterloo for questioning about the abduction of Mrs. Nancy Scott, 43, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Elizabeth Emerson of Laurel, Md. on Monday.

Mrs. Scott said she stopped for a traffic light in West Baltimore when a youth jumped into the car and threatened her with a gun. She said he told her to drive toward Washington, but he got out at Laurel.

Mrs. Emerson said a youth came up to her as she sat in her parked car in Laurel and forced her to drive to Scaggsville, Md. There she was ordered out, after turning over $9 to the youth.

The car was recovered in Alexandria, Va.

Culp said Scott admitted he stole another car in Alexandria, and then abandoned it in New Market, Va. from where he hitchhiked to Martinsburg.

Question Of Film Censor For Juveniles Debated

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A 2½-hour debate was held Wednesday about who should tell juveniles what movies they can see — parents, a state censor or the police.

"The kids ought to be put in a special category," said Maryland's chief censor, C. Morton Goldstein, who asked for the authority to prohibit children from seeing certain movies he considered obscene.

"It's the responsibility of the home and church," argued John Grason Turnbull, former state senator representing theaterowners opposed to the special censorship.

Where it rightly belongs, said Del. Whitmore (D-Anne Arundel), is "in the local law enforcing authorities."

The main featur of the hearing before the two judiciary committees of the Maryland Legislature was on a bill to permit the state censor board to label movies as obscene for children under 18.

"If a movie is obscene it shouldn't be shown at all," retorted Turnbull. The state censor board now may ban films entirely or require deletions if it considers them obscene.

Even this was considered probably unconstitutional by John Harlor, a Columbus, Ohio, lawyer expert in the field of movie censorship. He listed a number of Supreme Court cases which had whittled away the grounds on which movies may be censored and left only New York, Virginia and Kansas besides Maryland with state boards.

He had even more doubts of the constitutionality of the new Maryland bill because "I don't believe you can establish a degree of obscenity."

Mrs. Margaret Twyman, director of community relations for the Motion Picture Assn., and Fred Weisgal of the American Civil Liberties Union, both criticized the bill for attempting to substitute law for judgment by juveniles themselves.

"It belittles the judgment of the young people," said Mrs. Twyman, a former college dean of women. "A sense of responsibility can only be learned in the home."

Seaway Foes Told They Must "Live With It"

BALTIMORE (AP)—The President of the Pennsylvania Railroad told a group of Baltimore businessmen Wednesday that there's nothing the railroad or the port of Baltimore can do about the St. Lawrence Seaway but to live with it.

"Like yourselves," said James M. Symes, "we fought the seaway all down the line, both for business and for ideological reasons. We lost, and so we mean to live with it the best way we can. I imagine that is your attitude, too.

"I am sure we also share the view that the project should be required to live up to its commitment to charge tolls that make it self-supporting and self-amortizing."

Symes spoke at a get-acquainted luncheon with various business and civic interests in the city.

He said that last year most Eastern railroads did poorly. The Pennsylvania's rate of return on its investment was just over one-tenth of one per cent.

"And even that microscopic return was earned at the cost of heart-breaking curtailments in employment, in service, and in maintenance and improvement of plant and equipment," he said.

Symes said that as long as such curtailments have to be imposed, it hurts Baltimore and other communities, for it means that the railroad cannot expand its facilities or increase employment.

Double Trouble

NEWCASTLE, England (UPI)—Window washer George Shiels, 33, had two accidents Wednesday. He was working on the top rung of his ladder when a runaway truck knocked it from under him. Which face is yours?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Facial Beauty

What shape is your face? It's important for you to know if you want to select the hair style and make-up that's most becoming.

So why not come to terms with your face—recognize its possibilities and its impossibilities. Here's a trick to start you off: draw a frame with soap, about six inches by nine inches, on your mirror; pull your hair back lightly and stand so your head is enclosed in the frame. Now take a good look and compare the shape of your face with the types illustrated.

It's well to note that the face has four planes: the forehead, the frontal plane, and the two areas from cheekbones to hairline. Well-proportioned and clearly defined bone structure is the only standard of facial beauty. It's what gives your face individuality, and that's chiefly what mikes it appealing.

Even if nature hasn't endowed your bones with the symmetry you admire, you can modify the contour of your face with the aid of modern cosemtics. Actually you can create the illusion of a different-shaped face entirely. For example, you can get rid of a receding chin with skillful application of two shades of foundation.

First, apply your regular foundation to entire face and neck. Then employing a second foundation one shade lighter but in the same color range, smooth a broad flat line of it along the contours of your jaw bone as though you were sculpturing it. Now, blend the lighter foundation in every direction until there is no line of demarcation. After you have powdered, no one will detect this ruse and yet your jaw will look several degrees more important.

For the problem that is directly opposite, the too-pointed chin use the same method of application but make certain that the second foundation is two shades darker than your regular foundation.

Now, there's no reason to take it on the jaw any longer, is there?

Randolph Urges No Anti-Labor Drives

WEIRTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) Wednesday night applauded plans by businessmen to take a more active part in politics but cautioned them against embarking on an anti-labor campaign.

Addressing the Weirton Chamber of Commerce, Randolph said there was "some indication" the increased political activity of business was stimulated by concern about the growing power and political effectiveness of organized labor.

"I hope this view will not dominate the political actions of businessmen," Randolph said. "For any action which is cast in terms of protagonist and antagonist limits the freedom of the actors, by limiting the scope of their imagination and perception."

City Council Cancels Meets With Delegates

The Allegany County delegates and the senator were notified by mail yesterday by the Mayor and Council that a hearing before the legislators will not be held in Annapolis.

The idea of the cancellation of a meeting scheduled in the state capital this afternoon came during a session Tuesday of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners and the City Council.

Both city and county officials agreed that it was an imposition for them to have to travel to Annapolis to meet with the county delegation.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech forwarded the letter yesterday to Del. Fred B. Driscoll, delegation chairman, with copies to State Sen. Charles M. See, John J. Rowan, president of the county board, and five other delegates.

Keech said "I would certainly appreciate your advising the rest of the delegation that the Mayor and City Council will not appear before the delegation tomorrow, in connection with the proposed bill sent to you in regard to a contribution by the county to the city for its fire department. The Mayor and Council and the county commissioners held a joint meeting last night and it was felt advisable to ask the delegation to meet with both bodies in Cumberland on Saturday, February 21, at 10 a. m., and the meeting to be held in the county commissioners' room on the second floor of the Court House.

"In case Saturday, February 21, is not convenient, the meeting could be held at 8:30 a. m. on Monday, February 23, in the City Hall Council Chamber.

"The Mayor and City Council as well as the county commissioners will be glad to discuss various problems with the delegation, and so, therefore, we trust that such a meeting can be held, which will be in the best interest of residents of Allegany County."

In his letter to Sen. See, Mayor Keech stated:

"I am certainly happy to report to you that the county commissioners and the Mayor and City Council are trying to resolve various problems which they both have, the solution of which will be of benefit to all residents of the city as well as the county.

"We trust that there can be many meetings in Cumberland between the county commissioners and the city council, and all of the members of the delegation because, frankly, we must all work together in the best interests of the entire county."

At a hearing before the senator and six delegates, and the county commissioners two weeks ago, one legislater made the remark that the delegation should not be made the referee in disputes between the city council and county board.

That statement was made when the county commissioners expressed their views on legislation proposed by the city that would require an allocation of county funds.

Huge Field Blaze Is Extinguished

Volunteer firemen from Ridgeley and Wiley Ford battled a huge field blaze early yesterday along the Miltenberger Road.

Firemen said the blaze swept over the entire field and reached the foundation of a home before being brought under control.

High winds hampered firemen as they fought to save the home.

The alarm was received by Ridgeley at 3:40 a. m. Wiley Ford was summoned and sent an engine and pumper.

Firemen remained on the scene 45 minutes.

County Concerned About Drainage

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has written to the State Roads Commission concerning a drainage problem which it fears will develop as a result of the modernization of U. S. Route 40 from Long to the Six Mile House.

Harry Skelly, supervisor of the County Roads Department, informed the board that he had gone over the SRC plans for the highway project and has determined that water from the highway would drain onto county roads which intersect the main thoroughfare.

There are a large number of such roads which run off both sides of Route 40 in the LaVale area. Skelly told the board that the highway surface would be higher than the county roads in most cases and the water from the highway would drain onto them after a rainfall.

Tanker Aground

PORT SAID, U.A.R. (UPI) — An 8,000-ton Norwegian tanker ran aground in the Suez Canal Wednesday, delaying a 14 - ship convoy sailing south to Suez and the Red Sea. The freighter Jalinga crunched into the mud near Kantara, halfway between Port Said and Ismailia.

Huge Field Blaze Is Extinguished

Volunteer firemen from Ridgeley and Wiley Ford battled a huge field blaze early yesterday along the Miltenberger Road.

Firemen said the blaze swept over the entire field and reached the foundation of a home before being brought under control.

High winds hampered firemen as they fought to save the home.

The alarm was received by Ridgeley at 3:40 a. m. Wiley Ford was summoned and sent an engine and pumper.

Firemen remained on the scene 45 minutes.

County Concerned About Drainage

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has written to the State Roads Commission concerning a drainage problem which it fears will develop as a result of the modernization of U. S. Route 40 from Long to the Six Mile House.

Harry Skelly, supervisor of the County Roads Department, informed the board that he had gone over the SRC plans for the highway project and has determined that water from the highway would drain onto county roads which intersect the main thoroughfare.

There are a large number of such roads which run off both sides of Route 40 in the LaVale area. Skelly told the board that the highway surface would be higher than the county roads in most cases and the water from the highway would drain onto them after a rainfall.

Tax Officials Cite Dependent As Exemption

Taxpayers are entitled to only one $600 exemption for each dependent on their federal income tax returns for 1958, local tax officials said yesterday.

This is true regardless of the dependent's age or other conditions.

They said a taxpayer may claim an exemption for each child, stepchild, or legally adopted child who received more than half of his or her support from the taxpayer and who had not reached the age of 19.

If the child is 19 or over and is not a full-time student, and if he had an income of his own of $600 the taxpayer loses the exemption, they pointed out.

For dependents other than children (including an adopted child and a stepchild) five requirements must be met to claim an exemption.

The dependent must (1) have received less than $600 gross income; (2) have received more than half of his support from the taxpayer; (3) not have filed a joint return with his wife or her husband; (4) be a citizen of the United States or a resident of Canada, Mexico, the Republic of Panama or the Canal Zone; and (5) must either have been a member of the taxpayer's household for the entire taxable year, or must be related to the taxpayer (or to the taxpayer's wife or husband if a joint return is filed.)

If several persons together contributed more than half of the support for an individual during the year, but no one contributed more than half alone, the group may designate one who contributed more than 10 per cent of the support to claim the dependency exemption.

If a dependent was born or died during the year, the taxpayer can claim a full $600 exemption if the dependent met the requirements during the part of the year he was alive.

W. Va. 'Wets' And 'Drys' Hold No-Decision Debate

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— West Virginia's "wets" and "drys" collided head-on Wednesday in a no-decision debate before the House of Delegates.

The lawmakers, who listened in silence and asked no questions, will give their verdict Friday or early next week when two companion liquor resolutions come to a vote.

They heard liquor-by-the drink praised as a beneficial control measure that would curtail delinquency — and damned as increasing alcoholism and its attendant evils, and "cashing in on human weakness."

Before the House, sitting as a committee of the whole for the 90-minute public hearing, were two alternate measures both sponsored by "wet" leader Del. J. E. Watson (D-Marion).

They propose to submit to the voters in 1960 the question of legalizing over-the-bar sales of liquor, or banning intoxicating beverages completely. The House has since received a third resolution for an amendment that would make the present state liquor monopoly system part of the constitution.

Following the hearing, Watson's companion resolutions were given a routine first reading and moved to the amendment stage Thursday when the initial floor battle is expected. They could come to a final vote as early as Friday.

Only one person — Chester R. Hubbard of Wheeling — spoke in favor of liquor by the drink at the hearing. Hubbard is a former delegate who led the wet forces in the House during three terms ending last year.

Taking the opposite side were the Rev. L. E. Crowson, Logan; superintendent Stanley Niles of the West Virginia Temperance League; Mrs. J. Marion Baley, South Charleston; Robert E. Pennington, St. Albans; the Rev. William Hayler, Clarksburg, and Dr. W. W. Wells, Mullens physician.

Crowson is legislative strategy chairman of the Temperance League.

Hubbard led off the discussion and closed it after all of the opponents had spoken. While Watson had asked the Legislature to approve both — or neither — of his resolutions so that the voters could have two alternatives in 1960, Hubbard spoke only in favor of the liquor-by-the-drink resolution.

"It is my personal opinion that adoption of the amendment would be beneficial to West Virginia" he said. "I consider abuse of whisky an evil, not the use of it. If the law were changed it would curtail the abuse."

Hubbard told the House that regulated sale of liquor would curtail juvenile delinquency. He said a tavern operator would not jeopardize his license by selling beer or liquor to juveniles, while persons now selling liquor outside the law make no such distinctions.

The Wheeling attorney said experience in other states that legalized liquor-by-the drink was that overall consumption decreased.

Crowson called on the Legislature to "give us a one-shot vote. Then we can vote intelligently." He said submission of more than one amendment at a single election would only confuse the issue.

Hayler another of the opposition speakers described liquor as a poison, a common cause of accidents and broken homes and a factor in most cases of juvenile delinquency.

Mrs. Bailey argued that liquor-by-the drink would increase consumption as the liquor industry tried to expand its market.

Referring to the experience of neighboring Ohio, Niles said "liquor by the drink is not closing out the bootleggers." He said a total of 1,500 police raids were conducted last year on liquor outlets in that state.

"When you open the gates to hard liquor you have a shift from beer to hard liquor," he said. He also contended it would be impossible to keep young people out of the hundreds of restaurants that would sell liquor.

Niles salso said that raising revenue from liquor would be "cashing in on human weaknesses."

In closing the debate, Hubbard said "revenue should not be a part of this discussion. It should be a question of what is most beneficial for the state."

Sun Life of Canada Sells Record $990 Million in '58

Over $8 billion life insurance now in force; $36 million for policyholder dividends in 1959.

More life insurance sold by the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in 1958 than in any other year in the 88 year history of the Company was one of the highlights announced by George W. Bourke, President, in his review of Sun Life's business for 1958. Much of this record figure of $990 million was purchased in the United States, where the Company has 34% of its business in force. Included in the new business figure was $265 million of group insurance. During 1958, life insurance in force in the Company passed another milestone and, at the end of the year, amounted to $8,357,000,000, which is more than double the amount in force ten years ago. In 1959, the Sun Life will pay out $36,200,000 in dividends to policyholders, an increase of $2½ million over that paid out in 1958.

Last year, $159 million, or $627,000 every working day, was paid to policyholders, annuitants and beneficiaries. Of these amounts, nearly $110 million was paid to living policyholders and annuitants, and $49½ million to the beneficiaries of deceased policyholders. The benefit payments made by the Company since it commenced business now total $3,455,000,000.

The report also reveals that completely revised scales of premium rates have just been introduced for new business in the United States. These new rates involve the principle of grading premiums by amounts of insurance, and also reflect the further improvement in mortality which has taken place in recent years. Existing holders of participating policies benefit from improvement in mortality through the periodic revisions in dividend scales.

Mr. Bourke reported that the death rate among Sun Life policyholders in 1958 was slightly less than in the previous year, thus continuing the favorable trend of recent years. Research, which life insurance companies aid in financing, continues on heart disease and cancer, which account for over 75% of the Company's death claim payments, as compared with 60% twenty years ago. The proportion of death by accidents, the third ranking killer, rose from 6% in 1957 to over 8% during the past year.

Mr. Bourke also spoke about the corrosive effects of inflation on the dollar, and urged the old fashioned practice of 'thrift'. "To the policyholders of the Sun Life," he said, "and to the tens of millions of other life insurance policyholders, this is not a new word. By your personal belief in the independence of providing for oneself, you are exercising thrift: you are withholding dollars from today's income in order to send them ahead to provide tomorrow's needs and comforts. It is, however, our duty as your insurer, and the duty of each of us as citizens, to help our governments to exercise thrift in our national affairs and to maintain the integrity of our currency. A stable dollar is vital to a healthy and dynamic economy."

A copy of Sun Life's 1958 Annual Report, including the President's review of the year, is being sent to policyholders, or may be obtained from Paul E. Drury, C.L.U., Branch Manager, or Jack Powell, Group Sales Manager, 5010 York Road, Baltimore 12.

Over $8 billion life insurance now in force; $36 million for policyholder dividends in 1959.

More life insurance sold by the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in 1958 than in any other year in the 88 year history of the Company was one of the highlights announced by George W. Bourke, President, in his review of Sun Life's business for 1958. Much of this record figure of $990 million was purchased in the United States, where the Company has 34% of its business in force. Included in the new business figure was $265 million of group insurance. During 1958, life insurance in force in the Company passed another milestone and, at the end of the year, amounted to $8,357,000,000, which is more than double the amount in force ten years ago. In 1959, the Sun Life will pay out $36,200,000 in dividends to policyholders, an increase of $2½ million over that paid out in 1958.

Last year, $159 million, or $627,000 every working day, was paid to policyholders, annuitants and beneficiaries. Of these amounts, nearly $110 million was paid to living policyholders and annuitants, and $49½ million to the beneficiaries of deceased policyholders. The benefit payments made by the Company since it commenced business now total $3,455,000,000.

The report also reveals that completely revised scales of premium rates have just been introduced for new business in the United States. These new rates involve the principle of grading premiums by amounts of insurance, and also reflect the further improvement in mortality which has taken place in recent years. Existing holders of participating policies benefit from improvement in mortality through the periodic revisions in dividend scales.

Mr. Bourke reported that the death rate among Sun Life policyholders in 1958 was slightly less than in the previous year, thus continuing the favorable trend of recent years. Research, which life insurance companies aid in financing, continues on heart disease and cancer, which account for over 75% of the Company's death claim payments, as compared with 60% twenty years ago. The proportion of death by accidents, the third ranking killer, rose from 6% in 1957 to over 8% during the past year.

Mr. Bourke also spoke about the corrosive effects of inflation on the dollar, and urged the old fashioned practice of 'thrift'. "To the policyholders of the Sun Life," he said, "and to the tens of millions of other life insurance policyholders, this is not a new word. By your personal belief in the independence of providing for oneself, you are exercising thrift: you are withholding dollars from today's income in order to send them ahead to provide tomorrow's needs and comforts. It is, however, our duty as your insurer, and the duty of each of us as citizens, to help our governments to exercise thrift in our national affairs and to maintain the integrity of our currency. A stable dollar is vital to a healthy and dynamic economy."

A copy of Sun Life's 1958 Annual Report, including the President's review of the year, is being sent to policyholders, or may be obtained from Paul E. Drury, C.L.U., Branch Manager, or Jack Powell, Group Sales Manager, 5010 York Road, Baltimore 12.

City-County Issues May Be Resolved

For years, Cumberlanders have objected to the "double taxation" that arises from the overlapping of city and county functions. Similarly, many Allegany countians who live outside the city have resented the use of county funds in any manner tending to benefit Cumberland. At last it seems that something may be done to improve the situation.

Tuesday night's meeting of the Mayor and Council with the County Commissioners produced two positive results: (1) a five-member study committee is to be appointed, and (2) there was general agreement that the city should not contribute to the support of Juvenile Court.

The conciliatory air of those at the meeting contrasted with the querulous statements that have been tossed back and forth between city and county in the past month. Almost immediately, some progress began to take place.

Without going into the rights and wrongs of the disputes until the facts are at hand, it is sufficient to note a few of the problems still to be resolved. There is, for instance, the suggestion of the city that the county help support Cumberland's fire department, a suggestion that has drawn sharp rebuttal from the County Commissioners and from volunteer firemen in the county. There are other problems, too. There is, for example, the possibility of the establishment of a county library, with the attendant possibility that Cumberland would no longer support a city library.

There are many such problems, and it is only in a spirit of sincere good will and a desire for an even break for all the taxpayers that these difficulties can be resolved. A good start has been made. The rest will be up to the study commission and, finally, to the County Commissioners and the Mayor and Council.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Rackets

The word, racket, used to mean to make a noise. However, since the good, old days of Prohibition, it has come to have another meaning, broader, more inclusive. A racket is an illegal enterprise in which men engage with the overt or covert consent of government officials. Sometimes the front men in a racket are called racketeers, but they are rarely those who make the big profits.

It is impossible for one man to work a racket alone. He needs the assistance of a fixer, who is either a politician or a lawyer or both; he may need the help of someone in a law enforcement agency who is willing not to enforce the law; he may require special banking facilities or more often connects with a Shylock than with a legitimate bank. A racketeer, therefore, either is part of a syndicate or to use a more lowly term, "The Mob."

Rackets are not limited to vice, narcotics, murder. These are the lower forms of rackets, practiced by mobsters and producing the least money per racketeer. Gambling is a higher form of racketeering and the take is cut with bigger politicians. Gambling, even if legal, requires special protection and gets it. Vice is sometimes practiced by individual ladies of the night who can function without police protection for a prolonged period, but generally vice is male controlled and is a racket which means that it has protection, either legal or political.

The higher forms of rackets involve the sale of fraudulent stocks, the arrangements for income tax evasion or avoidance, contracting for sales and services to Federal, state and municipal governments, the allocation of territory for businesses, labor union goon operations, and similar activities. These rackets often require the connivance of highly placed officials, reputable businessmen, bankers, lawyers and politicians. For instance, walk into a million dollar high school or a municipal office building and ask yourself why sculptured bronze doors are required or why marble is so unsparingly used. Inquire about the salt used in your city on slippery streets during the winter. Where does it come from?

Who always has the contract? Check on a simple item of snow removal and note the excessive cost for trucks. Look into the costs of typewriters, sewing machines, lead pencils and similar items in your city schools.

In many places, these are racket items that pass unnoticed because the taxpayer is not conscious of the fact that it is waste and duplication that hit him hardest in all budgets. The Hoover Commission discovered that in the Federal Government; anyone who has studied racketeering in municipalities knows that to be true.

What is generally termed "labor racketeering" is a different thing altogether. Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell, John L. Lewis and, for that matter, all the great leaders of trade unions in this country, had nothing to do with racketeering. Samuel Gompers, who founded the American Federation of Labor, died a comparatively poor man.

It was during the Roosevelt Administration that the labor leaders (not the unions per se) got a law, the National Labor Relations Act, which made them powerful personalities not only in their unions but in the country. It is true that there was a period when labor unions hired acid throwers and even killers either to suppress competing unions or to force employers to their will. But Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt and their colleagues showed them a better way. Get a law and an agency to enforce the law in your favor and you become both legitimate and powerful. The NLRA and the NLRB did exactly that. The Taft-Hartley Law, designed to correct abuses, has not accomplished its objective. Rather, it has been so successfully manipulated to protect the labor bosses that all attempts to change it have failed. Thus far, the measure introduced in the 86th Congress will protect the labor bosses.

Two tendencies have appeared in trade unionism which are perilous: one is a personal combination of labor leaders and mobsters for their mutual benefit. (The workers do not benefit; the unions, as organizations, do not benefit.) The second is the outright purchase of political power by financial support, directly or indirectly, of members of Congress and other politicians. Before each election, lists are published of candidates who are friendly to labor. Labor reciprocates. This is not specifically racketeering. Another word is required to define it.

'I Would Save The Union'

Will Labor Price Itself Out Of The Market?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The paradox of continued unemployment on a large scale during a period of steadily progressing recovery is something that should begin to worry the labor leaders of America. It already has produced anxiety among many businessmen.

For, though business is slowly approaching high levels, the number of jobs isn't increasing as it should.

The latest figures show that perhaps labor is "pricing itself out of the market" and that labor-saving machinery is being forced on industry at an unprecedented rate.

Thus the economic unit of "U. S. News & World Report" in a copyrighted article this week presents the results of a survey of the job loss in the last 10 years. This survey reveals, for instance, that since the close of World War II, the output per worker has increased 19 per cent in steel because the industry, "pressed by high labor costs, has rushed new equipment and techniques to hold payrolls down." The result is that in 1958 the steel business employed only 536,000 workers. The article says that "if output per man had been the same as in the postwar years 1947-49, steel companies would have needed 637,000 workers.

Similarly, in autos, labor's loss in ten years due to higher output per man is 132,000 jobs. An additional 48,000 jobs were lost due to the imports of foreign cars.

Another dramatic example is in the coal industry where a 46 per cent increase in efficiency output due to modern methods and labor-saving equipment has kept down the number of workers. Employes in1958 in the bituminous coal mines numbered 195,000, but for the same output now as in 1948 there would have been needed 95,000 more workers than are employed today.

In the oil refining industry a loss of 71,800 jobs is noted in the last ten years.

This information comes at a time when American industry, fearful of the power of labor in the present Congress, and of higher and higher wage demands, feels the necessity for introducing more and more labor saving equipment. This course is often a very expensive one, but seeing ahead higher and higher payrolls every year regardless of any assurance of greater productivity, there is but one choice to make—to introduce the labor-saving devices to get the increased productivity.

The U. S. Department of Labor in figures just released says that there are still many hard-hit areas in the country and that 11 of the 149 major labor markets in the United States have as much as 12 per cent unemployment. In 17 cities the report shows from 9 to 12 per cent unemployed, and in 48 more the figures show 6 to 9 per cent unemployed. There are 76 "labor surplus" areas, compared with 45 in that status a year ago.

What is needed, of course, is a study by the government to learn just what kind of companies in each industry are finding it hard going and why. The outward appearance is of a boom because many of the well financed and more efficient plants, where new machinery has been introduced, can do a better job and at lower prices competitively than can many of the so-called marginal companies.

America can have a boom among the large industrial plants and yet see the plants of smaller companies running at much less than normal capacity. The Department of Justice seems to think the answer lies in bringing anti-trust suits against the large companies, but this alone cannot halt the drift toward more mergers. For it would appear that it is the plight of the smaller marginal companies which is producing much of the unemployment. Mergers among smaller companies are inevitable in many industries, but even this will not help much if the big labor unions negotiate wage scales with the big companies at rates that are ruinous to the smaller companies. The national pattern is usually set on the basis of contracts with the large corporations. The smaller ones have to pay the going wage rates or find themselves out of business.

This is why what is going on in Washington today is so important to the national economy. If the budget remains unbalanced in large amounts, the purchasing power of the dollar will continue to slide down. This means that, as the cost of living goes up, the union leaders will feel they must have higher and higher wage scales to take care of the majority of their workers e en though it means unemployment for the minority now idle. This is not achieving the much talked up goal of "full employment." In fact, there is much talk nowadays of "permanent unemployment," which is but another way of saying that fewer new jobs will be created and that the additions annually to the job-seeking population will become a bigger and bigger strain on the nation as a whole.

The tendency here is to try to cure everything by more public spending and by more and more borrowing by the government. The effect, however, is not to cure things, but make them worse as the dollar is driven down in value. Planning ahead in business during such an era is hazardous. When will the legislators here come to grips with the economic facts of American life?

Combined Drug And Surgery Treatment For TB

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Streptomycin, PAS, and isoniazid have proved a boon to the tuberculosis sufferer. These remedies have replaced older methods of treatment. In addition, they have made lung surgery a safe procedure.

Many operations have been devised to correct or eliminate residuals of the disease that do not respond to medical therapy. A person with a large tuberculosis cavity in a lung, for example, may spend months or years getting well.

Secretions from these lesions usually drain into the bronchi and are coughed up by the victim. Healing occurs when the cavity fills in and closes completely.

This is a slow process when it takes place, and a scar remains as a potential source of re-infection. Furthermore, scar tissue reduces elasticity of the lung and this becomes a serious problem among those who have had far advanced tuberculosis in both lungs.

The modern approach to this problem is effective and relatively simple. The disease process in and about the oral cavity is brought under control with the anti-tuberculosis agents. Surgery performed when this stage is reached, and the infected lobe of the lung is removed. In some instances, it may be necessary to take out the entire lung.

Shortly thereafter, the individual is up and about. The lesion is gone and, for practical purposes, the individual is well. Many other procedures are done in the treatmen of tubercul sis. Surgery is not recommended when the disease is minimal and there is a good chance of getting well with medicine alone.

Approximately 423 operations have been done at the Chicago State Tuberculosis sanitarium. The mortality rate was 3.7 per cent among those in whom one entire lung was removed and 1.7 per cent when only one lobe was taken out. Relapses occurred in less than 3 per cent.

These statistics serve to emphasize the safety and effectiveness of these surgical procedures. Most of the cases were far advanced initially and the chances of a complete remission were not high by older standards. Temporary improvement followed the use of drugs but the majority had received as much medicine as they could tolerate.

REPLY

No. Poultry dealers give small amounts of hormones to roosters to improve the quality of the meat and encourage faster gain in weight. The amount administered is calculated to last until the chicken is killed, and the infinitesimal remainder is inactivated by cooking.

Try And Stop Me

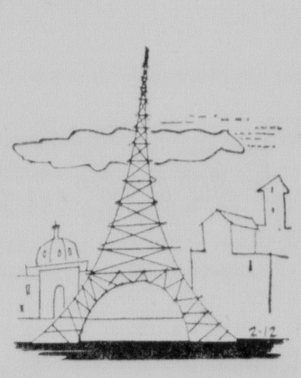
Did you know the famous Eiffel Tower in Paris was inspired, indirectly, by the Statue of Liberty? To facilitate work on the statue, Sculptor Bartholdi engaged Engineer Eiffel to build steel scaffolding. Later, when the 1889 Paris Exposition managers wanted something to dominate the grounds, Eiffel remembered that scaffolding, and modelled his tower on the same pattern. It rose 984 feet and was the world's highest structure until the Empire State building was built. Soon the Eiffel Tower will be eclipsed also by a huge TV tower of steel in Tokyo, Japan.



There's one young man in New York who was simply furious when he was turned down by his draft board. "You can't do this to me," he exploded. "I've already proposed to three girls, told my boss what I think of him, and given up my apartment."

Lincoln Belonged To No Church, But He Worked At His Religion

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—I have sometimes wondered what Abraham Lincoln would do or say today about the fact that 84 schools and places of worship have been dynamited in two years over the same issue he fought for.

As far as I know churches were not dynamited during the Civil War, and it would have been impossible to dynamite Lincoln's church anyway, for he belonged to none.

In Illinois he once rented a church pew, but it was Mrs. Lincoln who usually sat in it. When invited to join, he said that he "could not quite see it."

"I doubt the possibility or propriety of settling the religion of Jesus Christ in the model of man-made creeds and dogmas," he once said. "It was a spirit in the life He laid stress on and taught, if I read aright."

And again, "I cannot without mental reservations assent to long and complicated creeds and catechisms. If the church would ask simply for assent to the Savior's statement of the substance of the law: Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind and thy neighbor as thyself, that church would I glady join with."

So Lincoln stayed away from the church as a formal member. But he loved a theological argument, and in them frequently quoted Robert Burns' poem, "Holy Willie's Prayer." By accenting the line, "What! Send one to heaven and ten to hell?" he showed how he disapproved of the prevailing concept of hell. This was heresy in Illinois in those days, since revivalist preachers made perdition seem very real and very popular.

Loved His Enemies

But though Lincoln belonged to no church, he would have looked with approval upon the churchmen of today who have taken a courageous stand for better understanding in the south.

He would have approved, heartily, of Billy Graham's sermon at Clinton, Tenn., commemorating the raising of money for the new high school.

"We must recognize that love of mankind cannot be enforced by bayonets alone," Graham told those whose schoolhouse had been bombed. "The law in itself is powerless to change the human heart. Only love can do that and only Christ can bring that love."

Though Lincoln led a nation at war, "he was the only man in history," according to the late A. Powell Davies, "who ever led an army into battle loving his enemies more than he loved himself."

Lincoln would also have admired the courage of such clergymen as Ross Weston, the Unitarian minister of Arlington, Va., Monsignor Flaherty of Virginia, Rev. Colin Lile, rector of Christ Church in Alexandria where George Washington worshipped, Rabbi John Rothschild of Atlanta, who held an inspiring service in his temple immediately after it was bombed.

The kind of parson Lincoln believed in was not the hell-and-brimstone type but men like Rev. Paul W. Turner, the little Baptist who was beaten up by seven men and two women on the streets of Clinton, Tenn., after he escorted six Negro children through a mob of shouting demonstrators.

Lincoln would have given his blessing to the Henderson, Kentucky, Ministerial Association whose members were booed and jeered by a mob in front of the Weaverton Consolidated School when they appeared there to give moral support to parents. And he would have given his quiet, powerful support to the five Methodist ministers who telegraphed Gov. Orval Faubus asking that he apologize for branding the Presbyterian clergy Communists because of their stand on the race issue.

Lincoln's Creed

Lincoln's faith sprang from a rich knowledge of the Bible, from reading Herbert Spencer's "First Principles" and "Social Studies," Emerson's Essays, Lecky's "History of Rationalism," Tom Paine's "Age of Reason," Fenerbach's "Essence of Christianity," and the sermons of the Boston preacher, Theodore Parker, one of which gave him the substance of his "government of the people, by the people and for the people."

"Probably it is to be my lot," Lincoln once said, "to go on in a twilight, feeling and reasoning my way through life, as questioning, doubting Thomas did. But in my poor, maimed, withered way, I bear with me as I go on, a seeking spirit of desire for a faith that was with him of the olden time, who, in his need, as I in mine, exclaimed, 'Help Thou my unbelief'."

In his famous debates with Stephen Douglas, Lincoln again and again defined the real issue facing this country ". . . the issue that will continue in this country when these poor tongues of Judge Douglas and myself shall be silent. It is the eternal struggle between the two principles, right and wrong, throughout the world. They are the two principles that have stood face to face since the beginning of time and will ever continue to struggle."

Capitol Chaff

Joseph H. Freehill, a great public servant who labored for his fellowman, died shortly after being defeated in the race for Congress in Northern Virginia. After death, it was discovered that he had used up all his savings, all his insurance money, every penny he had to pay his campaign deficit. This is the toll frequently imposed on honest men who run for Congress. Friends of Freehill are now raising money to help his family . . . Sen. Lyndon Johnson has appointed five new top-notch Senators to the Small Business Committee—Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, Clair Engle of California, Harrison Williams of New Jersey, Bob Bartlett of Alaska, and John Moss of Utah—all with good records for helping small business.

More About GM

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — The lawyers of the Anti-Trust Division of the Justice Department are out to break up General Motors.

General Motors is big — the largest industrial enterprise in the world.

It is successful. This success has created nearly 600,000 jobs with an annual payroll of around $3 billion. Not to mention the jobs created by its purchases from suppliers and others.

It brings to 720,000 owners of its common shares — second in number only to American Telephone — more than half a billion dollars. This is a return of almost 4.2 per cent on their risk at current market prices for the shares.

It pays more than a billion dollars in taxes — twice what the shareowners receive. Of the total taxes, 80 per cent goes to state and local governments.

G. M. produces 51.1 per cent of the nation's passenger cars and 38.2 per cent of the trucks.

Nearly half the automobiles on the highways today — 47 per cent to be exact — are GM products — not because of any monopoly but because GM is competitive. When it comes to automobiles, as well as about everything else from diapers to father's suits, the selection — the choice — is up to the consumer.

General Motors is run by men who have worked their way up from the ranks through ability. The General Motors management team is tops — even its competitors admit that.

Frederic G. Donner, the new 57-year-old chairman and chief executive officer, started with GM as an accountant three years after his graduation from the University of Michigan.

John F. Gordon, 58, the new president, is an Annapolis graduate, class of 1922. He went to work as a laboratory technician with GM's Cadillac a year after his graduation.

Harlow "Red" Curtice, who retired as president and chief executive officer last year, at 20 answered an advertisement of GM's AC Spark Plug Co. for a bookkeeper. He was hired.

Albert Bradley, who retired last year as board chairman, joined the comptroller's staff in 1919 after two years in the Army air force in World War I. His parents brought him as a "very young boy" to this country from England.

Charles E. (Engine Charley) Wilson retired as GM president in 1953 to become Eisenhower's Secretary of Defense. An engineer, he came to GM in 1919 after 10 years with Westinghouse. His first GM job was chief engineer and sales manager of Remy Electric Co., a subsidiary. He went with Westinghouse on his graduation at the age of 18 from Carnegie Tech. His parents had been teachers, but his father switched to small town banking.

William S. Knudsen was GM's president before Wilson. Born in Denmark, he came to the U.S. at the age of 20. He had been an apprentice mechanic in his brother's bicycle shop Copenhagen. His first jobs in this country were a shipyard riveter and a hand in the Erie Railroad's roundhouse.

He went to Buffalo to start as a bench hand in the John R. Keim Mills in 1899. Ford Motor took over Keim in 1911, and he later became Ford production chief. Ford fired him in 1921 and a year later Knudsen joined GM. Before taking the presidency in 1933, he had headed the Chevrolet division. He left GM to head up the War Production Mobilization in Washington in 1940.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., the business genius who developed the GM management team — the finest ever assembled by any major enterprise — started with GM in the days of William C. Durant. He had started with the old Hyatt Roller Bearing company in Newark as a draftsman after his graduation from Massachusetts Institute of Technology —famed MIT. Hyatt was merged with United Motors, which Durant in 1918 consolidated into General Motors.

Sloan was a vice president when Durant got into financial difficulties in 1920 and was forced out of GM. The du Ponts rescued General Motors, with Pierre du Pont succeeding Durant as president. Two years later, du Pont moved up to board chairman and Sloan became president, a post he held until 1937. He became board chairman, retaining his title of chief executive until 1946, when Curtis, GM president, added the chief executive title.

Charles "Boss" Kettering was another who played a major role in GM's development. He was a pioneer in industrial research — to quote him — "the Ohio farm boy who turned 'monkey wrench scientist.'" Kettering died a few months ago at 82. His life left the world much richer and healthier.

General Motors contribution to the better way of living has been more than providing cheap, comfortable transportation for the masses. Others have helped provide this — Henry Ford and Walter Chrysler, to name two.

GM played the major role in dieselizing the railroad industry. It has helped bring to the average home many comforts and conveniences, including modern refrigeration.

These are peace time achievements, contributing in a major way to lifting living standards in the U.S. to leyels higher than ever envisaged and higher than ever attained anywhere in the world under any system.

In war time, GM's contributions have been equally spectacular. One of the reasons the U.S. was able to win two world wars and why the U.S. today can face up to Russia is because GM is big.

This bigness, because it is successful, is a crime in the eyes of the lawyers of the Anti-Trust Division. They want to break up GM.

None of these lawyers has ever had to meet a payroll or develop and market a product in a highly competitive field.

There is, for instance, the suggestion of the city that the county help support Cumberland's fire department, a suggestion that has drawn sharp rebuttal from the County Commissioners and from volunteer firemen in the county. There are other problems, too. There is, for example, the possibility of the establishment of a county library, with the attendant possibility that Cumberland would no longer support a city library.

There are many such problems, and it is only in a spirit of sincere good will and a desire for an even break for all the taxpayers that these difficulties can be resolved. A good start has been made. The rest will be up to the study commission and, finally, to the County Commissioners and the Mayor and Council.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Rackets

The word, racket, used to mean to make a noise. However, since the good, old days of Prohibition, it has come to have another meaning, broader, more inclusive. A racket is an illegal enterprise in which men engage with the overt or covert consent of government officials. Sometimes the front men in a racket are called racketeers, but they are rarely those who make the big profits.

It is impossible for one man to work a racket alone. He needs the assistance of a fixer, who is either a politician or a lawyer or both; he may need the help of someone in a law enforcement agency who is willing not to enforce the law; he may require special banking facilities or more often connects with a Shylock than with a legitimate bank. A racketeer, therefore, either is part of a syndicate or to use a more lowly term, "The Mob."

Rackets are not limited to vice, narcotics, murder. These are the lower forms of rackets, practiced by mobsters and producing the least money per racketeer. Gambling is a higher form of racketeering and the take is cut with bigger politicians. Gambling, even if legal, requires special protection and gets it. Vice is sometimes practiced by individual ladies of the night who can function without police protection for a prolonged period, but generally vice is male controlled and is a racket which means that it has protection, either legal or political.

The higher forms of rackets involve the sale of fraudulent stocks, the arrangements for income tax evasion or avoidance, contracting for sales and services to Federal, state and municipal governments, the allocation of territory for businesses, labor union goon operations, and similar activities. These rackets often require the connivance of highly placed officials, reputable businessmen, bankers, lawyers and politicians. For instance, walk into a million dollar high school or a municipal office building and ask yourself why sculptured bronze doors are required or why marble is so unsparingly used. Inquire about the salt used in your city on slippery streets during the winter. Where does it come from?

Who always has the contract? Check on a simple item of snow removal and note the excessive cost for trucks. Look into the costs of typewriters, sewing machines, lead pencils and similar items in your city schools.

In many places, these are racket items that pass unnoticed because the taxpayer is not conscious of the fact that it is waste and duplication that hit him hardest in all budgets. The Hoover Commission discovered that in the Federal Government; anyone who has studied racketeering in municipalities knows that to be true.

What is generally termed "labor racketeering" is a different thing altogether. Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell, John L. Lewis and, for that matter, all the great leaders of trade unions in this country, had nothing to do with racketeering. Samuel Gompers, who founded the American Federation of Labor, died a comparatively poor man.

It was during the Roosevelt Administration that the labor leaders (not the unions per se) got a law, the National Labor Relations Act, which made them powerful personalities not only in their unions but in the country. It is true that there was a period when labor unions hired acid throwers and even killers either to suppress competing unions or to force employers to their will. But Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt and their colleagues showed them a better way. Get a law and an agency to enforce the law in your favor and you become both legitimate and powerful. The NLRA and the NLRB did exactly that. The Taft-Hartley Law, designed to correct abuses, has not accomplished its objective. Rather, it has been so successfully manipulated to protect the labor bosses that all attempts to change it have failed. Thus far, the measure introduced in the 86th Congress will protect the labor bosses.

Two tendencies have appeared in trade unionism which are perilous: one is a personal combination of labor leaders and mobsters for their mutual benefit. (The workers do not benefit; the unions, as organizations, do not benefit.) The second is the outright purchase of political power by financial support, directly or indirectly, of members of Congress and other politicians. Before each election, lists are published of candidates who are friendly to labor. Labor reciprocates. This is not specifically racketeering. Another word is required to define it.

'I Would Save The Union'

Lincoln Belonged To No Church, But He Worked At His Religion

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—I have sometimes wondered what Abraham Lincoln would do or say today about the fact that 84 schools and places of worship have been dynamited in two years over the same issue he fought for.

As far as I know churches were not dynamited during the Civil War, and it would have been impossible to dynamite Lincoln's church anyway, for he belonged to none.

In Illinois he once rented a church pew, but it was Mrs. Lincoln who usually sat in it. When invited to join, he said that he "could not quite see it."

"I doubt the possibility or propriety of settling the religion of Jesus Christ in the model of man-made creeds and dogmas," he once said. "It was a spirit in the life He laid stress on and taught, if I read aright."

And again, "I cannot without mental reservations assent to long and complicated creeds and catechisms. If the church would ask simply for assent to the Savior's statement of the substance of the law: Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind and thy neighbor as thyself, that church would I glady join with."

So Lincoln stayed away from the church as a formal member. But he loved a theological argument, and in them frequently quoted Robert Burns' poem, "Holy Willie's Prayer." By accenting the line, "What! Send one to heaven and ten to hell?" he showed how he disapproved of the prevailing concept of hell. This was heresy in Illinois in those days, since revivalist preachers made perdition seem very real and very popular.

Loved His Enemies

But though Lincoln belonged to no church, he would have looked with approval upon the churchmen of today who have taken a courageous stand for better understanding in the south.

He would have approved, heartily, of Billy Graham's sermon at Clinton, Tenn., commemorating the raising of money for the new high school.

"We must recognize that love of mankind cannot be enforced by bayonets alone," Graham told those whose schoolhouse had been bombed. "The law in itself is powerless to change the human heart. Only love can do that and only Christ can bring that love."

Though Lincoln led a nation at war, "he was the only man in history," according to the late A. Powell Davies, "who ever led an army into battle loving his enemies more than he loved himself."

Lincoln would also have admired the courage of such clergymen as Ross Weston, the Unitarian minister of Arlington, Va., Monsignor Flaherty of Virginia, Rev. Colin Lile, rector of Christ Church in Alexandria where George Washington worshipped, Rabbi John Rothschild of Atlanta, who held an inspiring service in his temple immediately after it was bombed.

The kind of parson Lincoln believed in was not the hell-and-brimstone type but men like Rev. Paul W. Turner, the little Baptist who was beaten up by seven men and two women on the streets of Clinton, Tenn., after he escorted six Negro children through a mob of shouting demonstrators.

Lincoln would have given his blessing to the Henderson, Kentucky, Ministerial Association whose members were booed and jeered by a mob in front of the Weaverton Consolidated School when they appeared there to give moral support to parents. And he would have given his quiet, powerful support to the five Methodist ministers who telegraphed Gov. Orval Faubus asking that he apologize for branding the Presbyterian clergy Communists because of their stand on the race issue.

Lincoln's Creed

Lincoln's faith sprang from a rich knowledge of the Bible, from reading Herbert Spencer's "First Principles" and "Social Studies," Emerson's Essays, Lecky's "History of Rationalism," Tom Paine's "Age of Reason," Fenerbach's "Essence of Christianity," and the sermons of the Boston preacher, Theodore Parker, one of which gave him the substance of his "government of the people, by the people and for the people."

"Probably it is to be my lot," Lincoln once said, "to go on in a twilight, feeling and reasoning my way through life, as questioning, doubting Thomas did. But in my poor, maimed, withered way, I bear with me as I go on, a seeking spirit of desire for a faith that was with him of the olden time, who, in his need, as I in mine, exclaimed, 'Help Thou my unbelief'."

In his famous debates with Stephen Douglas, Lincoln again and again defined the real issue facing this country ". . . the issue that will continue in this country when these poor tongues of Judge Douglas and myself shall be silent. It is the eternal struggle between the two principles, right and wrong, throughout the world. They are the two principles that have stood face to face since the beginning of time and will ever continue to struggle."

Capitol Chaff

Joseph H. Freehill, a great public servant who labored for his fellowman, died shortly after being defeated in the race for Congress in Northern Virginia. After death, it was discovered that he had used up all his savings, all his insurance money, every penny he had to pay his campaign deficit. This is the toll frequently imposed on honest men who run for Congress. Friends of Freehill are now raising money to help his family . . . Sen. Lyndon Johnson has appointed five new top-notch Senators to the Small Business Committee—Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, Clair Engle of California, Harrison Williams of New Jersey, Bob Bartlett of Alaska, and John Moss of Utah—all with good records for helping small business.

Will Labor Price Itself Out Of The Market?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The paradox of continued unemployment on a large scale during a period of steadily progressing recovery is something that should begin to worry the labor leaders of America. It already has produced anxiety among many businessmen.

For, though business is slowly approaching high levels, the number of jobs isn't increasing as it should.

The latest figures show that perhaps labor is "pricing itself out of the market" and that labor-saving machinery is being forced on industry at an unprecedented rate.

Thus the economic unit of "U. S. News & World Report" in a copyrighted article this week presents the results of a survey of the job loss in the last 10 years. This survey reveals, for instance, that since the close of World War II, the output per worker has increased 19 per cent in steel because the industry, "pressed by high labor costs, has rushed new equipment and techniques to hold payrolls down." The result is that in 1958 the steel business employed only 536,000 workers. The article says that "if output per man had been the same as in the postwar years 1947-49, steel companies would have needed 637,000 workers.

Similarly, in autos, labor's loss in ten years due to higher output per man is 132,000 jobs. An additional 48,000 jobs were lost due to the imports of foreign cars.

Another dramatic example is in the coal industry where a 46 per cent increase in efficiency output due to modern methods and labor-saving equipment has kept down the number of workers. Employes in1958 in the bituminous coal mines numbered 195,000, but for the same output now as in 1948 there would have been needed 95,000 more workers than are employed today.

In the oil refining industry a loss of 71,800 jobs is noted in the last ten years.

This information comes at a time when American industry, fearful of the power of labor in the present Congress, and of higher and higher wage demands, feels the necessity for introducing more and more labor saving equipment. This course is often a very expensive one, but seeing ahead higher and higher payrolls every year regardless of any assurance of greater productivity, there is but one choice to make—to introduce the labor-saving devices to get the increased productivity.

The U. S. Department of Labor in figures just released says that there are still many hard-hit areas in the country and that 11 of the 149 major labor markets in the United States have as much as 12 per cent unemployment. In 17 cities the report shows from 9 to 12 per cent unemployed, and in 48 more the figures show 6 to 9 per cent unemployed. There are 76 "labor surplus" areas, compared with 45 in that status a year ago.

What is needed, of course, is a study by the government to learn just what kind of companies in each industry are finding it hard going and why. The outward appearance is of a boom because many of the well financed and more efficient plants, where new machinery has been introduced, can do a better job and at lower prices competitively than can many of the so-called marginal companies.

America can have a boom among the large industrial plants and yet see the plants of smaller companies running at much less than normal capacity. The Department of Justice seems to think the answer lies in bringing anti-trust suits against the large companies, but this alone cannot halt the drift toward more mergers. For it would appear that it is the plight of the smaller marginal companies which is producing much of the unemployment. Mergers among smaller companies are inevitable in many industries, but even this will not help much if the big labor unions negotiate wage scales with the big companies at rates that are ruinous to the smaller companies. The national pattern is usually set on the basis of contracts with the large corporations. The smaller ones have to pay the going wage rates or find themselves out of business.

This is why what is going on in Washington today is so important to the national economy. If the budget remains unbalanced in large amounts, the purchasing power of the dollar will continue to slide down. This means that, as the cost of living goes up, the union leaders will feel they must have higher and higher wage scales to take care of the majority of their workers e en though it means unemployment for the minority now idle. This is not achieving the much talked up goal of "full employment." In fact, there is much talk nowadays of "permanent unemployment," which is but another way of saying that fewer new jobs will be created and that the additions annually to the job-seeking population will become a bigger and bigger strain on the nation as a whole.

The tendency here is to try to cure everything by more public spending and by more and more borrowing by the government. The effect, however, is not to cure things, but make them worse as the dollar is driven down in value. Planning ahead in business during such an era is hazardous. When will the legislators here come to grips with the economic facts of American life?

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Some teen-age lads have gone in for a new fad—hula hoop haircuts. The barber chops off their locks in a perfect circle around their noggins. Grandpappy Jenkins says he wore one as a boy—only it was called the "soup bowl."

Gabriel Fahrenheit, we read, was a kindly old gent. Then why did he have to go and invent the thermometer?

More About GM

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — The lawyers of the Anti-Trust Division of the Justice Department are out to break up General Motors.

General Motors is big — the largest industrial enterprise in the world.

It is successful. This success has created nearly 600,000 jobs with an annual payroll of around $3 billion. Not to mention the jobs created by its purchases from suppliers and others.

It brings to 720,000 owners of its common shares — second in number only to American Telephone — more than half a billion dollars. This is a return of almost 4.2 per cent on their risk at current market prices for the shares.

It pays more than a billion dollars in taxes — twice what the shareowners receive. Of the total taxes, 80 per cent goes to state and local governments.

G. M. produces 51.1 per cent of the nation's passenger cars and 38.2 per cent of the trucks.

Nearly half the automobiles on the highways today — 47 per cent to be exact — are GM products — not because of any monopoly but because GM is competitive. When it comes to automobiles, as well as about everything else from diapers to father's suits, the selection — the choice — is up to the consumer.

General Motors is run by men who have worked their way up from the ranks through ability. The General Motors management team is tops — even its competitors admit that.

Frederic G. Donner, the new 57-year-old chairman and chief executive officer, started with GM as an accountant three years after his graduation from the University of Michigan.

John F. Gordon, 58, the new president, is an Annapolis graduate, class of 1922. He went to work as a laboratory technician with GM's Cadillac a year after his graduation.

Harlow "Red" Curtice, who retired as president and chief executive officer last year, at 20 answered an advertisement of GM's AC Spark Plug Co. for a bookkeeper. He was hired.

Albert Bradley, who retired last year as board chairman, joined the comptroller's staff in 1919 after two years in the Army air force in World War I. His parents brought him as a "very young boy" to this country from England.

Charles E. (Engine Charley) Wilson retired as GM president in 1953 to become Eisenhower's Secretary of Defense. An engineer, he came to GM in 1919 after 10 years with Westinghouse. His first GM job was chief engineer and sales manager of Remy Electric Co., a subsidiary. He went with Westinghouse on his graduation at the age of 18 from Carnegie Tech. His parents had been teachers, but his father switched to small town banking.

William S. Knudsen was GM's president before Wilson. Born in Denmark, he came to the U.S. at the age of 20. He had been an apprentice mechanic in his brother's bicycle shop Copenhagen. His first jobs in this country were a shipyard riveter and a hand in the Erie Railroad's roundhouse.

He went to Buffalo to start as a bench hand in the John R. Keim Mills in 1899. Ford Motor took over Keim in 1911, and he later became Ford production chief. Ford fired him in 1921 and a year later Knudsen joined GM. Before taking the presidency in 1933, he had headed the Chevrolet division. He left GM to head up the War Production Mobilization in Washington in 1940.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., the business genius who developed the GM management team — the finest ever assembled by any major enterprise — started with GM in the days of William C. Durant. He had started with the old Hyatt Roller Bearing company in Newark as a draftsman after his graduation from Massachusetts Institute of Technology —famed MIT. Hyatt was merged with United Motors, which Durant in 1918 consolidated into General Motors.

Sloan was a vice president when Durant got into financial difficulties in 1920 and was forced out of GM. The du Ponts rescued General Motors, with Pierre du Pont succeeding Durant as president. Two years later, du Pont moved up to board chairman and Sloan became president, a post he held until 1937. He became board chairman, retaining his title of chief executive until 1946, when Curtis, GM president, added the chief executive title.

Charles "Boss" Kettering was another who played a major role in GM's development. He was a pioneer in industrial research — to quote him — "the Ohio farm boy who turned 'monkey wrench scientist.'" Kettering died a few months ago at 82. His life left the world much richer and healthier.

General Motors contribution to the better way of living has been more than providing cheap, comfortable transportation for the masses. Others have helped provide this — Henry Ford and Walter Chrysler, to name two.

GM played the major role in dieselizing the railroad industry. It has helped bring to the average home many comforts and conveniences, including modern refrigeration.

These are peace time achievements, contributing in a major way to lifting living standards in the U.S. to levels higher than ever envisaged and higher than ever attained anywhere in the world under any system.

In war time, GM's contributions have been equally spectacular. One of the reasons the U.S. was able to win two world wars and why the U.S. today can face up to Russia is because GM is big.

This bigness, because it is successful, is a crime in the eyes of the lawyers of the Anti-Trust Division. They want to break up GM.

None of these lawyers has ever had to meet a payroll or develop and market a product in a highly competitive field.

Combined Drug And Surgery Treatment For TB

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Streptomycin, PAS, and isoniazid have proved a boon to the tuberculosis sufferer. These remedies have replaced older methods of treatment. In addition, they have made lung surgery a safe procedure.

Many operations have been devised to correct or eliminate residuals of the disease that do not respond to medical therapy. A person with a large tuberculosis cavity in a lung, for example, may spend months or years getting well.

Secretions from these lesions usually drain into the bronchi and are coughed up by the victim. Healing occurs when the cavity fills in and closes completely.

This is a slow process when it takes place, and a scar remains as a potential source of re-infection. Furthermore, scar tissue reduces elasticity of the lung and this becomes a serious proolem among those who have had far advanced tuberculosis in both lungs.

The modern approach to this problem is effective and relatively simple. The disease process in and about the oral cavity is brought under control with the anti-tuberculosis agents. Surgery is performed when this stage is reached, and the infected lobe of the lung is removed. In some instances, it may be necessary to take out the entire lung.

Shortly thereafter, the individual is up and about. The lesion is gone and, for practical purposes, the individual is well. Many other procedures are done in the treatmen of tubercul sis. Surgery is not recommended when the disease is minimal and there is a good chance of getting well with medicine alone.

Approximately 423 operations have been done at the Chicago State Tuberculosis sanitarium. The mortality rate was 3.7 per cent among those in whom one entire lung was removed and 1.7 per cent when only one lobe was taken out. Relapses occurred in less than 3 per cent.

These statistics serve to emphasize the safety and effectiveness of these surgical procedures. Most of the cases were far advanced initially and the chances of a complete remission were not high by older standards. Temporary improvement followed the use of drugs but the majority had received as much medicine as they could tolerate.

FATTENED

M. L. writes: Is it true that chicken necks should be thrown away because something is injected into them by farmers which — if eaten — would cause cancer?

REPLY

No. Poultry dealers give small amounts of hormones to roosters to improve the quality of the meat and encourage faster gain in weight. The amount administered is calculated to last until the chicken is killed, and the infinitesimal remainder is inactivated by cooking.

ANXIETY REDUCERS

T. P. writes: What are the names of the tranquilizers on the market today?

REPLY

Space does not permit mentioning the more than 200 available. Among the best known are Atarax, Thorazine, Sparine, Pacatal, Miltown, Equanil, Frenquel, Suavital, Cavatin, and Suvren.

THE LOWLY CORN

W. L. writes: Why do some people have corns and others don't?

REPLY

The corny person does not know how to walk properly or to buy shoes that fit. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on corns and calluses.

TOMORROW: Fevers.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

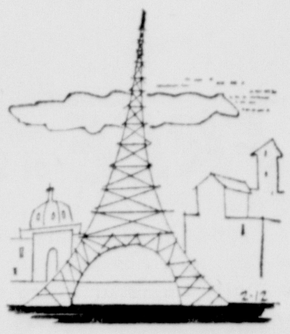
Did you know the famous Eiffel Tower in Paris was inspired, indirectly, by the Statue of Liberty? To facilitate work on the statue, Sculptor Bartholdi engaged Engineer Eiffel to build steel scaffolding. Later, when the 1889 Paris Exposition managers wanted something to dominate the grounds, Eiffel remembered that scaffolding, and modelled his tower on the same pattern. It rose 984 feet and was the world's highest structure until the Empire State building was built. Soon the Eiffel Tower will be eclipsed also by a huge TV tower of steel in Tokyo, Japan.



There's one young man in New York who was simply furious when he was turned down by his draft board. "You can't do this to me," he exploded. "I've already proposed to three girls, told my boss what I think of him, and given up my apartment."

West Virginia To Tighten Law On Magistrates

Three JP Bills Are Introduced

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Three bills to revamp regulations concerning West Virginia justices of the peace were introduced in the House of Delegates Wednesday by Del. W. E. Chilton (D-Kanawha).

One of the measures would require all JPs to have at least a high school education. Another provided that an audit of civil cases handled by magistrates be made by the tax commissioner at a charge to the JP of 10 cents per case checked.

If any discrepancy were found in any of the audits, it would have to be reported to the circuit judge or county prosecutor of the area where the JP operates. The third bill would require that a person be a resident of his district two years before being eligible for election as a JP.

Another of 28 other bills submited in the Legislature Wednesday was an administration measure to liberalize benefits under the workmen's compensation program for West Virginia's jobless.

The bill, introduced by Minority Leader George Seibert (R-Ohio), would increase by $3 weekly minimum - maximum payments, raising them to $23-$36. It would also increase monthly benefits by $5 to $70 to widows and by $2.50 to $20 for dependent children. It would remove from present law a provision that an employer could raise a final medical award authorized by the commissioner.

Also among the 18 measures introduced in the House was one by Speaker Harry R. Pauley (D-McDowell) to increase salaries of officials in several counties.

Other bills would:

—Create a board of medical examiners to set up rules and regulations regarding cremation, autopsies, etc. and would place coroners under its jurisdiction (Kincaid).

—Require that county offices be open between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p. m. Monday through Friday (Brotherton).

—Double in most instances fees which circuit and county clerks may charge (Brotherton).

—Require that railroad employes be required to work no longer than 12 consecutive hours followed by a rest period of at least eight hours (Hedrick).

Elkins Mayor Closes Five Gas Stations

Says Gasoline In City Sewers

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI)—Five service stations in the Randolph Ave. area here will be closed down after Wednesday in an effort to find the source of a gasoline leak into city sewers.

Mayor Harry Wilmouth declared a state of emergency and asked five oil companies to cease their deliveries to the affected stations until the source of the leak is discovered.

The fuel has been found in the city's combined sanitary and storm sewers along Randolph Ave. on several occasions the past five years.

The state fire marshal's office and a private chemist, engineer and investigator have failed to find the source. And the situation apparently is growing worse.

Firemen spent several hours flushing gasoline from a sewer line this week. Several gallons of almost pure gasoline was pumped Monday from a water meter box in front of one of the five service stations.

Mayor Wilmouth said "if it means that we have to order one or several tanks pulled from the ground, then that's what we're going to do before the stations can operate again."

Moorefield May Organize Civic Development Group

MOOREFIELD — Representatives of 16 organizations in the Moorefield area met at the Hardy County Public Library for the purpose of planning the organization of a Community Development Council.

Dr. E. B. McCue and Dr. Harold Gibbard, both of West Virginia University, gave brief talks on what such a council could accomplish and its advantages.

Dr. McCue, who is head of the West Virginia University Extension Service, explained how the University became interested in such plans. The General Federation of Women's Clubs in cooperation with Sears-Roebuck Company is sponsoring a project of community betterment. The idea is not for women's clubs to do things alone but for the community to develop some project which will be for the improvement of all. The awards, which will be made by Sears-Roebuck, are not given to the club which wins but to the community and the project.

The Extension department was asked to have advisors ready to assist communities with ideas and suggestions; to be able to tell communities where to go for information needed and how to go about improving themselves. The Moorefield community is the first in the state to ask for help and since the request from Moorefield reached Morgantown, 12 communities have asked for a meeting with University representatives.

Dr. McCue stated that the idea back of the Community Council is for coordination of all organizations, so that projects too large for one group to handle could be aided by all.

Dr. Gibbard, head of the Sociology Department at West Virginia, brought out the fact that a good starting point is the assembly of information and from that point, definite plans could be made for the project that all members agree upon. He also reminded his hearers that the award can be "a better Moorefield," no matter whether a national award is made or not.

Organizations represented at the meeting and members representing them are: Lions Club, Guy Lang; Moose, Richard Troughton, James Bond and Johnny Paugh; Women of the Moose, Mrs. Maurice Genevier; American Legion, William Toohey and Eddie Bill; Women of the Brethren Church, Mrs. Laurean Smith and Mrs. Roxie Miller; Women of the Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Ed Baker; Women of the Methodist Church, Miss Elizabeth Wilson; Women of the Episcopal Church, Mrs. Grover Charlton; Farm Women's Council, Mrs. W. C. Harper and Mrs. John A. Mathias; Fire Company, L. L. McConnell and T. B. McNeill, Fire Company Auxiliary, Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall; Order Eastern Star, Mrs. Vernon Taylor and Price Riggleman; Home-School Group from Moorefield High School, Irvin Bowman and LaMar Sager; Student Council, Carolyn Chipley; C. A. P. Jan Schmutz. Several interested persons, Mrs. H. G. Muntzing, R. S. McNeill, Mrs. R. E. Fisher and Mayor P. W. Clarke were also present. Three ladies from Petersburg, interested in forming a similar council in their community were also present: Mrs. Lysle Veach, Mrs. William Welker and Miss Juanita Richmond.

Mrs. Richard Troughton, Mrs. Donald Baker, Mrs. Wyndell Hester, Mrs. R. J. Bean and Mrs. Roy Hamilton, members of the Women's Club of Moorefield and of the committee on Community Service, were present and Mrs. Troughton presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Troughton announced that this meeting was merely to acquaint the organizations of Moorefield with the idea of a Community Development Council and urged each representative to go back to his particular group and explain the plan and find out from that group what particular projects might be considered by the community as a whole. A second meeting was set for March 9 in the library for organization and discussion of projects.

All-Stars Edge Old Germans, 103-101, In Two Overtimes

Groat Scores 57 Points For Winners

Large Crowd Sees Smith's Goal Win In Final Seconds

By BILL FAIR

Dick Groat's basketball All-Stars, led by the captain and shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates himself, pulled out a 103-101 victory over the Cumberland City League Old Germans in a thrilling double-overtime battle last night before a near-capacity crowd on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

One-time All-American cager for Duke University before electing baseball as his career, Groat came near paralleling his record 64-point performance set here in 1955, but he fell seven tallies shy last night, getting "only" 57 on a terrific display of all-angle shooting.

Smith Scores Clincher

The Old Germans, showing rather well why they are undefeated in the City circuit, nearly had victory within their anxious grasp on three occasions. A drive-in lay-up by major leaguer Paul Smith, property of the Chicago Cubs, with only a few seconds to play in the second five-minute overtime stanza, brought triumph to the court-converted diamond stars.

After the Old Germans trailed most of the way from the second quarter, Jim Eckard, assistant coach at Fort Hill High School, tossed in an over-head set shot to tie the game at 87-87 and then on an assist from ex-Piedmont High cager Eddie Orndorff, Eckard dumped in a birdie to give the locals an 89-87 margin. The Gees, after a time-out, began a freeze. Groat, seconds later, rippled the nets with a one-hander to send the game into overtime, following Eckard's miss-fire on one of his favorite set shots with four ticks left.

Bobby Del Greco, former Buc and Yankee outfielder, seemingly out of nowhere, tossed in two baskets in the initial extra heat, and ex-University of Maryland standout Don Moran matched him. Groat hooped a penalty pitch and with 1:30 to play in the "fifth" stanza, the All-Stars led, 94-93.

Groat Fouls Twice

Then Groat, in an effort to obtain possession of the ball fouled Moran and Alex Ambrose. After the conversions the locals appeared to be grasping victory with but 58 seconds on the clock.

Eckard repeated Groat's fouling episode and collected a pair of personals while Groat and the surprising Paul Smith stepped to the 15-foot line to make the count 97-97.

In what was to be the final heat, the Gees got the tip and once again took up with their slow, deliberate maneuvering. With an open lane, Glen Smith of Piedmont cashed in on another of his twisting drives for two points. However, Del Greco drove under the long arms of Moran for a layup and the count was again tied, 99-99.

On a beautiful left-handed hook shot, Groat sent his quint to the fore, 101-99. Moran underneath seconds later tied the score for the final time. It was then that Smith, who ended with 17 markers, came through with the game's winning basket.

Del Greco Scores 11

Del Greco, getting all his points in the last half, wound up with 11. Penn State's Art Betts came through with 14, while ace Pirate hurler Ronnie Kline showed why he chose baseball in scoreless performance, taking but one shot.

Moran was guarded by the shorter Groat after Betts exited the contest due to a turned ankle in the third period, and led the Brewers with 30 tallies. Eckard, doing most of his bombing from the outside, garnered 17, Glenn Smith had 22 and Orndorff got 14.

Groat, incidentally, sank 23 field goals in 47 tries. He made 28 baskets in his performance four years ago. His mates made good 41 of 91 shots for a .455 tabulation, while the locals made 42 of 105 for an even .400.

Rematch Is Set For Jordan, Akins

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The rematch between Don Jordan, the welterweight champion, and dethroned Virgil Akins was reset Wednesday for April 3 at Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis.

The fight had been scheduled for March 6 at the Arena here, but damage to the big sports building in Tuesday's tornado forced the change.

WVU Faces NYU Cagers

Mountaineers Seek 12th In Row Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — West Virginia goes after its 12th victory in a row Thursday night against New York University. And the Mountaineers are likely to warm up extensively beforehand.

As a result of cold starts West Virginia has had to come from behind in its last four games to keep alive its streak, which has pushed its record to 18-3. It trailed at halftime by margins ranging from 2 to 18 points in those games.

The current Mountaineers have won five of the seven games in which they were behind at the half. That's almost as good as last year's regular season national champions who rallied to win six of eight games in which they were on the short end at the half.

Leading West Virginia into its annual Madison Square Garden appearance is Jerry West, who holds an average of 25.9 points a game, and one-eyed Buck Bolyard.

The bustling, hustling Bolyard's sterling play was in large part responsible for comeback wins over Pitt and Holy Cross in the last two games. In those games he scored 43 points, West 52.

NYU has won eight and lost seven but is regarded as a dangerous customer. Among the Violets' victims is Holy Cross. NYU beat Holy Cross on the latter's home court while WVU had to come from 12 points behind at halftime for a 96-90 TV win last Saturday at Morgantown.

Tom Nugent, Tawes Meet

Governor Given Football By Coach

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — "I hope the next time I can bring you a football from a bowl," Coach Tom Nugent of the University of Maryland told Gov. Tawes Wednesday.

The new coach and the new governor met for the first time. Nugent presented the governor with a football and invited him to attend Maryland home games.

"I'm a football fan and I remember those years not so long ago when Maryland was at the peak," Gov. Tawes replied. "Anything I can help you to to do it again, let me know."

"I'm sure you'll like our style of football," Nugent said.

Then he expressed the hope that he soon could deliver a football from a post season bowl game played in by Maryland.

B. Herbert Brown, a university regent, also told Gov. Tawes he "would have seats on the 50-yard line and then be our No. 1 representative at the Sugar Bowl."

"Well, you sure did a lot in a couple of minutes," the governor told Brown. "You've won all the season games and got us in a bowl."

Nugent left Florida State to succeed Tommy Mont as coach at Maryland. The university decided not to renew Mont's contract after three years.

He had stepped in after Jim Tatum had developed Maryland into one of the best college football teams in the nation. Mont's best record was 5-5 in 1957.

Corle Rides Three Winners

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 11 (AP) — Evelyn Miss won by a whisker in a three-horse photo finish today in the $4,000 Calvert Purse at Bowie race track.

Many observers thought Watson Elliott's filly was third but her close finish put her ahead of Roxbury Farm's O'Keegan. Anthony P. Bovello's Battle Hill was third.

The winner ran the 6 furlongs in 1:12 1/5 and gave Jockey Bobby Corle his third victory of the day. Evelyn Miss was never far off the pace but had to go wide in the stretch to find racing room.

Evelyn Miss paid $20.20, $8.60 and $4.40; O'Keegan $5.00 and $3.20 and Battle Hill $4.40.

Corle's other winners were Jolly Rhymer in the first and King Judex in the third. This gave him five winners for the current session, only one behind pace-setter Raul Sterling.

A crowd of 8,373 wagered $698,932 in the day's nine races.

Tar Heels Tops In ACC; Terps Best Defensively

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — There is still a long way to go before the Atlantic Coast Conference champion is settled in basketball, but the team efficiency race is about over.

North Carolina's Tar Heels, according to latest ACC Service Bureau figures, have a commanding lead in three major categories and are a close second in a fourth.

The Tar Heels lead scoring average (73 points a game), average margin over opposition (10.1 points a game), field goal accuracy (43.9 per cent) and are second in rebounds (48.5 recoveries a game) to N. C. State's 48.8.

Maryland, though beaten nine times, tops defense against scoring with an average yield of only 55.9 points a game.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (UPI) — Notre Dame football teams coached by the late Knute Rockne compiled a .898 winning percentage. From 1918 through 1930 they won 105 games, lost 12, and tied 5.

Cincinnati Again 'Reds'

Redlegs Title Adopted In 1953

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati baseball club, after a half dozen years of bearing the name "Redlegs," have reverted to their old name of "Reds."

The Reds changed their traditional name in 1953 to "Redlegs" because the name had become a tag for Communists and the Russians. At the time, General Manager Gabe Paul said, "We wanted to be certain we wouldn't be confused with the Russian Reds."

But now the 1959 spring training brochure of the club bears the name "The Cincinnati Reds."

"We haven't changed a thing," Paul insisted. "Reds . . . Redlegs . . . Red Stockings . . . they're all part of our name."

"We just decided to use Reds a little more," he said.

But virtually every piece of publicity from the club spoke of the team as the "Redlegs" since 1953. Cincinnati newspapers seldom went along with the alteration and most old-time fans spoke of the club as the "Reds" after the name "Redlegs" was adopted.

Bayard To Host Vikings Today

Charles Town High Visits Moorefield

Bayard High School will be shooting for its sixth straight victory when it engages the Petersburg Vikings in the final game of their season series tonight at Bayard.

Coach Francis Maleonskie's Tigers could clinch the championship of Grant County by winning this one as they've already beaten the Vikings by the score of 51-40 in a game played December 5.

Bayard owns a 12-2 record and has trimmed Elk Garden, Pickens, Northern, Terra Alta and Harman in its last five outings. Petersburg's record is 4 wins and 13 losses.

Moorefield High's Yellowjackets (7-9) host Coach Richard Harmison's Charles Town High Panthers from Jefferson County tonight. Charles Town (9-5) edged Coach Jonathan Paugh's quint in the series opener by the score of 44-43.

Frostburg State Teachers College, nearing the end of its schedule, plays its 15th game of the season at West Liberty (W.Va.) College tonight. The Bobcats play Southeastern University of Washington, D.C., at Frostburg Saturday night and windup their schedule next Wednesday with Potomac State in the Mountain City.

Keyser Whips Moorefield Quint, 73-47

Wins 9th Straight Conference Game

KEYSER, W. Va. — Keyser High's Golden Tornado quintet racked up its fifth consecutive victory and ninth in a row in the Potomac Valley Conference here last night by easily turning back Moorefield High's Yellowjackets, 73-47.

The triumph was the 12th in 13 games in the conference for Coach John Shelton's crew which now sports an overall mark of 12-3. It also enabled the Tornado five to sweep the season's series with Moorefield which lost the opener between the two teams, 61-54.

The Jackets, coached by Jonathan Paugh, were never in serious contention after Keyser broke a 2-2 deadlock early in the first quarter and steadily drew ahead. The Tornado quint led 35-14 at halftime.

Ronnie Smith paced the Keyser attack with 20 points on nine goals and a pair of fouls. He also swept the backboard clean for 20 rebounds in a fine defensive effort.

Moorefield, meanwhile, lost its third game in its last four starts and dropped its 10th decision in 17 games. The Jackets now are 7-9 in the conference.

High point man for Moorefield was Jimmy Paugh with 13 tallies.

North High Wins 16th Straight

Hubs Defeat South For Class A Crown

HAGERSTOWN — North High's rampaging Hubs made it 16 straight victories here last night by turning back city riva. South High's Rebels, 59-46, to clinch the Washington County Class A title and gain at least a tie in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League race.

The win was the eighth straight in the CVAL to give Coach Mel Henry's Hubs a 2½ game lead over Fort Hill High's Sentinels of Cumberland who have a 5-2 league mark.

The undefeated North quint jumped out in front of their arch city rival, 19-3, in the first quarter and never was in danger. The win gave the Hubs a sweep of the city series as South lost the opener, 60-32, on December 17.

North High will represent Washington County in the state district playoffs next month.

A victory in one of North's two remaining CVAL contests also will clinch the league title for the Henrymen.

Both teams experienced good nights at the foul line with North meshing 23 of 34 chances while South connected with 22 of 39.

The game's high scorers were North's Skip Vance with 15 markers and South's Tom Ecton had 18. The lineups:

Deadline Set For Entries In Cage Tournament

Wednesday, February 25, is the deadline for entries in the annual Women's Recreation Association basketball tourney to be held this year during the second week in March.

All team rosters, limited to 10 players per team, must be submitted, along with the $10 entry fee, to Pat Thompson, president of the association, by February 25.

The association also announced that practice dates for teams interested in vying for the title are open every Wednesday at Fort Hill High girls gym.

Fort Hill's championship cage team, under the banner of Esso Service Station, won last year's crown.

Wall Favored In Tucson Open

$15,000 Tourney To Begin Today

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Art Wall is favored by some fellow golfers to win the $15,000 Tucson Open Golf tournament starting Thursday, but he doesn't see it that way.

Wall has been under par in 13 of his last 14 rounds. In the six tournaments of 1959 he's gone over par only three times and leads the money winners with $13,682. The ex-Duke University player won the Bing Crosby tourney and finished second at Los Angeles and Phoenix.

Arnold Palmer, No. 1 money winner of 1958, Mike Souchak and host pro Dutch Harrison named Wall as the logical favorite.

But the Pocono Manor, Pa., pro said, "With so many hot golfers in the field, I don't see how you can pick a favorite."

The flat, 35-35 — 70 El Rio course is one of the easiest the pros play all year. On this layout four days of par golf seldom win a dime.

All-Stars Edge Old Germans, 103-101, In Two Overtimes

Groat Scores 57 Points For Winners

Large Crowd Sees Smith's Goal Win In Final Seconds

By BILL FAIR

Dick Groat's basketball All-Stars, led by the captain and shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates himself, pulled out a 103-101 victory over the Cumberland City League Old Germans in a thrilling double-overtime battle last night before a near-capacity crowd on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

One-time All-American cager for Duke University before electing baseball as his career, Groat came near paralleling his record 64-point performance set here in 1955, but he fell seven tallies shy last night, getting "only" 57 on a terrific display of all-angle shooting.

Smith Scores Clincher

The Old Germans, showing rather well why they are undefeated in the City circuit, nearly had victory within their anxious grasp on three occasions. A drive-in, lay-up by major leaguer Paul Smith, property of the Chicago Cubs, with only a few seconds to play in the second five-minute overtime stanza, brought triumph to the court-converted diamond stars.

After the Old Germans trailed most of the way from the second quarter, Jim Eckard, assistant coach at Fort Hill High School, tossed in an over-head set shot to tie the game at 87-87 and then on an assist from ex-Piedmont High cager Eddie Orndorff, Eckard dumped in a birdie to give the locals an 89-87 margin. The Gees, after a time-out, began a freeze. Groat, seconds later, rippled the nets with a one-hander to send the game into overtime, following Eckard's miss-fire on one of his favorite set shots with four ticks left.

Bobby Del Greco, former Buc and Yankee outfielder, seemingly out of nowhere, tossed in two baskets in the initial extra heat, and ex-University of Maryland standout Don Moran matched him. Groat hooped a penalty pitch and with 1:30 to play in the "fifth" stanza, the All-Stars led, 94-93.

Groat Fouls Twice

Then Groat, in an effort to obtain possession of the ball fouled Moran and Alex Ambrose. After the conversions the locals appeared to be grasping victory with but 58 seconds on the clock.

Eckard repeated Groat's fouling episode and collected a pair of personals while Groat and the surprising Paul Smith stepped to the 15-foot line to make the count 97-97.

In what was to be the final heat, the Gees got the tip and once again took up with their slow, deliberate maneuvering. With an open lane, Glen Smith of Piedmont cashed in on another of his twisting drives for two points. However, Del Greco drove under the long arms of Moran for a layup and the count was again tied, 99-99.

On a beautiful left-handed hook shot, Groat sent his quint to the fore, 101-99. Moran underneath seconds later tied the score for the final time. It was then that Smith, who ended with 17 markers, came through with the game's winning basket.

Del Greco Scores 11

Del Greco, getting all his points in the last half, wound up with 11, Penn State's Art Betts came through with 14, while ace Pirate hurler Ronnie Kline showed why he chose baseball in scoreless performance, taking but one shot.

Moran was guarded by the shorter Groat after Betts exited the contest due to a turned ankle in the third period, and led the Brewers with 30 tallies. Eckard, doing most of his bombing from the outside, garnered 17, Glenn Smith had 22 and Orndorff got 14.

Groat, incidentally, sank 23 field goals in 47 tries. He made 28 baskets in his performance four years ago. His mates made good 41 of 91 shots for a .455 tabulation, while the locals made 42 of 105 for an even .400.

WVU Faces NYU Cagers

Mountaineers Seek 12th In Row Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — West Virginia goes after its 12th victory in a row Thursday night against New York University. And the Mountaineers are likely to warm up extensively beforehand.

As a result of cold starts West Virginia has had to come from behind in its last four games to keep alive its streak, which has pushed its record to 18-3. It trailed at halftime by margins ranging from 2 to 18 points in those games.

The current Mountaineers have won five of the seven games in which they were behind at the half. That's almost as good as last year's regular season national champions who rallied to win six of eight games in which they were on the short end at the half.

Leading West Virginia into its annual Madison Square Garden appearance is Jerry West, who holds an average of 25.9 points a game, and one-eyed Buck Bolyard.

The bustling, hustling Bolyard's sterling play was in large part responsible for comeback wins over Pitt and Holy Cross in the last two games. In those games he scored 43 points, West 52.

NYU has won eight and lost seven but is regarded as a dangerous customer. Among the Violets' victims is Holy Cross. NYU beat Holy Cross on the latter's home court while WVU had to come from 12 points behind at halftime for a 96-90 TV win last Saturday at Morgantown.

Tom Nugent, Tawes Meet

Governor Given Football By Coach

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — "I hope the next time I can bring you a football from a bowl," Coach Tom Nugent of the University of Maryland told Gov. Tawes Wednesday.

The new coach and the new governor met for the first time. Nugent presented the governor with a football and invited him to attend Maryland home games.

"I'm a football fan and I remember those years not so long ago when Maryland was at the peak," Gov. Tawes replied. "Anything I can help you to to do it again, let me know."

"I'm sure you'll like our style of football," Nugent said.

Then he expressed the hope that he soon could deliver a football from a post season bowl game played in by Maryland.

B. Herbert Brown, a university regent, also told Gov. Tawes he "would have seats on the 50-yard line and then be our No. 1 representative at the Sugar Bowl."

"Well, you sure did a lot in a couple of minutes," the governor told Brown. "You've won all the season games and got us in a bowl."

Nugent left Florida State to succeed Tommy Mont as coach at Maryland. The university decided not to renew Mont's contract after three years.

He had stepped in after Jim Tatum had developed Maryland into one of the best college football teams in the nation. Mont's best record was 5-5 in 1957.

Corle Rides Three Winners

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 11 (AP) — Evelyn Miss won by a whisker in a three-horse photo finish today in the $4,000 Calvert Purse at Bowie race track.

Many observers thought Watson Elliott's filly was third but her close finish put her ahead of Roxbury Farm's O'Keegan. Anthony P. Bovello's Battle Hill was third.

The winner ran the 6 furlongs in 1:12 1/5 and gave Jockey Bobby Corle his third victory of the day. Evelyn Miss was never far off the pace but had to go wide in the stretch to find racing room.

Evelyn Miss paid $20.20, $8.60 and $4.40; O'Keegan $5.00 and $3.20 and Battle Hill $4.40.

Corle's other winners were Jolly Rhymer in the first and King Judex in the third. This gave him five winners for the current session, only one behind pace-setter Raul Sterling.

A crowd of 8,373 wagered $698,932 in the day's nine races.

Rematch Is Set For Jordan, Akins

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The rematch between Don Jordan, the welterweight champion, and dethroned Virgil Akins was reset Wednesday for April 3 at Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis.

The fight had been scheduled for March 6 at the Arena here, but damage to the big sports building in Tuesday's tornado forced the change.

Tar Heels Tops In ACC; Terps Best Defensively

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — There is still a long way to go before the Atlantic Coast Conference champion is settled in basketball, but the team efficiency race is about over.

North Carolina's Tar Heels, according to latest ACC Service Bureau figures, have a commanding lead in three major categories and are a close second in a fourth.

The Tar Heels lead scoring average (73 points a game), average margin over opposition (10.1 points a game), field goal accuracy (43.9 per cent) and are second in rebounds (48.5 recoveries a game) to N. C. State's 48.8.

Maryland, though beaten nine times, tops defense against scoring with an average yield of only 55.9 points a game.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (UPI) — Notre Dame football teams coached by the late Knute Rockne compiled a .898 winning percentage. From 1918 through 1930 they won 105 games, lost 12, and tied 5.

Hot Springs National Park, in Arkansas, is America's only government-owned spa.

Cincinnati Again 'Reds'

Redlegs Title Adopted In 1953

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati baseball club, after a half dozen years of bearing the name "Redlegs," have reverted to their old name of "Reds."

The Reds changed their traditional name in 1953 to "Redlegs" because the name had become a tag for Communists and the Russians. At the time, General Manager Gabe Paul said, "We wanted to be certain we wouldn't be confused with the Russian Reds."

But now the 1959 spring training brochure of the club bears the name "The Cincinnati Reds."

"We haven't changed a thing," Paul insisted. "Reds . . . Redlegs . . . Red Stockings . . . they're all part of our name."

"We just decided to use Reds a little more," he said.

But virtually every piece of publicity from the club spoke of the team as the "Redlegs" since 1953. Cincinnati newspapers seldom went along with the alteration and most old-time fans spoke of the club as the "Reds" after the name "Redlegs" was adopted.

Bayard To Host Vikings Today

Charles Town High Visits Moorefield

Bayard High School will be shooting for its sixth straight victory when it engages the Petersburg Vikings in the final game of their season series tonight at Bayard.

Coach Francis Maleonskie's Tigers could clinch the championship of Grant County by winning this one as they've already beaten the Vikings by the score of 51-40 in a game played December 5.

Bayard owns a 12-2 record and has trimmed Elk Garden, Pickens, Northern, Terra Alta and Harman in its last five outings. Petersburg's record is 4 wins and 13 losses.

Moorefield High's Yellowjackets (7-9) host Coach Richard Harmison's Charles Town High Panthers from Jefferson County tonight. Charles Town (9-5) edged Coach Jonathan Paugh's quint in the series opener by the score of 44-43.

Frostburg State Teachers College, nearing the end of its schedule, plays its 15th game of the season at West Liberty (W.Va.) College tonight. The Bobcats play Southeastern University of Washington, D.C., at Frostburg Saturday night and windup their schedule next Wednesday with Potomac State in the Mountain City.

Keyser Whips Moorefield Quint, 73-47

Wins 9th Straight Conference Game

KEYSER, W. Va. — Keyser High's Golden Tornado quintet racked up its fifth consecutive victory and ninth in a row in the Potomac Valley Conference here last night by easily turning back Moorefield High's Yellowjackets, 73-47.

The triumph was the 12th in 13 games in the conference for Coach John Shelton's crew which now sports an overall mark of 12-3. It also enabled the Tornado five to sweep the season's series with Moorefield which lost the opener between the two teams, 61-54.

The Jackets, coached by Jonathan Paugh, were never in serious contention after Keyser broke a 2-2 deadlock early in the first quarter and steadily drew ahead. The Tornado quint led 35-14 at halftime.

Ronnie Smith paced the Keyser attack with 20 points on nine goals and a pair of fouls. He also swept the backboard clean for 20 rebounds in a fine defensive effort.

Moorefield, meanwhile, lost its third game in its last four starts and dropped its 10th decision in 17 games. The Jackets now are 7-9 in the conference.

High point man for Moorefield was Jimmy Paugh with 13 tallies.

North High Wins 16th Straight

Hubs Defeat South For Class A Crown

HAGERSTOWN — North High's rampaging Hubs made it 16 straight victories here last night by turning back city riva. South High's Rebels, 59-46, to clinch the Washington County Class A title and gain at least a tie in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League race.

The win was the eighth straight in the CVAL to give Coach Mel Henry's Hubs a 2½ game lead over Fort Hill High's Sentinels of Cumberland who have a 5-2 league mark.

The undefeated North quint jumped out in front of their arch city rival, 19-3, in the first quarter and never was in danger. The win gave the Hubs a sweep of the city series as South lost the opener, 60-32, on December 17.

North High will represent Washington County in the state district playoffs next month.

A victory in one of North's two remaining CVAL contests also will clinch the league title for the Henrymen.

Both teams experienced good nights at the foul line with North meshing 23 of 34 chances while South connected with 22 of 39.

The game's high scorers were North's Skip Vance with 15 markers and South's Tom Ecton had 18. The lineups:

Deadline Set For Entries In Cage Tournament

Wednesday, February 25, is the deadline for entries in the annual Women's Recreation Association basketball tourney to be held this year during the second week in March.

All team rosters, limited to 10 players per team, must be submitted, along with the $10 entry fee, to Pat Thompson, president of the association, by February 25.

The association also announced that practice dates for teams interested in vying for the title are open every Wednesday at Fort Hill High girls gym.

Fort Hill's championship cage team, under the banner of Esso Service Station, won last year's crown.

Wall Favored In Tucson Open

$15,000 Tourney To Begin Today

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Art Wall is favored by some fellow golfers to win the $15,000 Tucson Open Golf tournament starting Thursday, but he doesn't see it that way.

Wall has been under par in 13 of his last 14 rounds. In the six tournaments of 1959 he's gone over par only three times and leads the money winners with $13,682. The ex-Duke University player won the Bing Crosby tourney and finished second at Los Angeles and Phoenix.

Arnold Palmer, No. 1 money winner of 1958, Mike Souchak and host pro Dutch Harrison named Wall as the logical favorite.

But the Pocono Manor, Pa., pro said, "With so many hot golfers in the field, I don't see how you can pick a favorite."

The flat, 35-35 — 70 El Rio course is one of the easiest the pros play all year. On this layout four days of par golf seldom win a dime.

Brown Decisions Busso, Retains Lightweight Crown

Champ Gains Nod, Scores Knockdown

"Defensive Prowess Aids Title Holder; Busso Is Aggressive

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Joltin' Joe Brown did very little jolting of challenger Johnny Busso Wednesday night, but scored one knockdown and piled up enough points to easily retain his world's lightweight championship with a unanimous decision.

The game little New York contender carried the fight to the brown-skinned Baton Rouge, La., belter, but he was never able to score a decisive blow and spent much of the night swinging wildly as the canny champion bobbed and weaved out of the way.

Brown, who weighed in at 134 to Busso's 135, sent the aggressive fourth - ranking contender sprawling through the lower ropes for a five-count in the ninth round with a wicked right cross and staggered him in the fourth with another right.

Defensive Prowess

But it was the wily champion's defensive prowess as much as his fighting ability that won him the nod from referee Jimmy Webb and judges Ernie Taylor and Bill Cornelius.

The champion, who now has turned in six successful defenses of the crown he took from Wallace (Bud) Smith 29 months ago, brought blood in the same fourth round that saw him stagger Busso.

A right to the head sent blood streaming from the curly-headed challenger's nose and in the seventh Brown opened a nasty cut under Busso's left eye with a vicious right.

Protects Himself

From that point on, Busso had to try to and protect himself and, he did a good job of it aside from that ninth round when Brown's right caught him flush and toppled him to the ring apron and through the lower ropes.

Busso, who had won an overweight decision from Brown five months ago in Miami Beach, Fla., by staying atop the champion and keeping him on the defense, tried much the same tactics Wednesday night.

But, this time Brown was ready for him. He let Busso bring the fight to him, but made him miss time and time again and when the challenger did connect it was little more than a flicking touch of the gloves.

Busso was game to the end, and in the 11th—although he obviously was tiring in this his first 15-round venture—he gave the crowd a thrill when he folded Brown with a left to the midsection. It wasn't a staggering blow, but from the way Brown reacted to it, the crowd thought it was a solid hit.

Busso's handlers managed to stop the bleeding for a short span, but they used so much vaseline doing so that the protective coating often splattered into his eye and hindered his vision.

The referee gave Busso only two rounds—the 13th and 15th—in scoring it 148-131 for Brown, while Cornelius scored it 149-140 and Taylor 147-138. The United Press International score card showed Brown leading 144-139.

KILLED — Marshall Teague, 37, former national stock car racing champion, was killed yesterday while making a speed run at the new Daytona Beach, Fla., speedway. He was trying to better the record of 177 miles per hour he set earlier this week. (AP Photofax)

Former AAA Stock Car Champ Killed

Marshall Teague Dies In Crackup

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Marshall Teague, 37, AAA national stock car champion in 1952 and 1954, was killed in the smash-up of his specially built Sumar streamliner at the new Daytona Beach Speedway Wednesday.

He had just finished a lap at 128 miles an hour but it was not known how fast he was going when his machine skidded on the west turn, flipped five times in the air and crashed.

Teague, a veteran racer, was shaking down the Sumar, an Indianapolis-type racer built in Terre Haute, Ind., and owned by Chapman Root, Ormond Beach millionaire.

Ben Taylor, a radio station announcer, said Teague's approach to the turn appeared normal, then the car seemed to list slightly. The nose went downhill and then hurtled into the air.

Sections of the car came off in the air and were strewn for 150 yards.

Teague's watch was later found in the middle of the track, still running.

Bill France, president of the speedway, said he saw no indication of tire or mechanical failure in the Sumar — "It looks like he lost control."

The speedway is being used for the first time this year. It is 2½ miles long, has smooth asphalt, is 65 feet wide in the turns and 54 on the straightaways. Each turn is banked 31 degrees.

Elliott Given New Contract At California

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—They tore up the contract of football Coach Pete Elliott at the University of California Wednesday and gave him and his six assistants new ones.

Salary figures and length of contracts were withheld.

Elliott's old contract, which still had a year to run, paid him $16,000 a year and was a three-year agreement.

From a 1-9 season in 1957 Elliott brough the Golden Bears to 7-2 winding up in the Rose Bowl.

Jensen Again Refuses To Ink Bosox Contract

Number Of Other Players Signed

By United Press International

A number of players signed their major league contracts Wednesday but Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox made the most news by returning his — unsigned.

Jensen, former California football star who was voted the American League's "Most Valuable Player" of 1958, said at his home in Oakland, Calif., that he wanted about $40,000 this year. That's about a third of the amount his teammate, Ted Williams, will get.

"My first contract wasn't what I asked for and mean to get," Jensen said.

In Boston, General Manager Bucky Harris said Jensen's contract "called for a substantial increase."

"It was a very satisfactory contract. I'm surprised he didn't sign it," Harris said.

Success With Malzone

Harris was able to announce that Frank Malzone has come to terms. Malzone, American League All-Star third baseman for the past two seasons, hit .295 in 1958.

Other baseball news Thursday:

—The New York Yankees announced that pitchers Murry Dickson and Ed Dick plus outfielder John Reed have signed, giving them 19 under contract. Dickson will be 43 in August.

—The Detroit Tigers announced that pitchers Pete Burnside and Don Lee and Maury Wills, a Negro infielder who hits right or left handed, have signed. The Tigers have 26 men in the fold.

—Outfielder Bobby Gene Smith and pitcher Bob Miller signed their contracts with the St. Louis Cardinals but General Manager Bing Devine said he and pitcher Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell had failed to come to terms.

Trowbridge Inks Pact

Bob Trowbridge, a right-handed pitcher who was used mostly in relief last season, signed his 1959 contract with the Milwaukee Braves. Trowbridge had a 1-3 record in 1958.

—Solly Drake, switch-hitting outfielder up from Montreal of the International League, became the 28th Dodger to return his signed contract. Drake was selected on the International League's All-Star team.

—The Chicago White Sox signed relief pitcher Turk Lown, giving the club 26 players under contract and 13 to go.

The White Sox obtained Lown, 34, from Cincinnati on waivers last June.

The Frostburg team copped the first half title and has won five in a row since the second half race got under way.

In a twin bill tonight on SS. Peter and Paul court, St. Ambrose of Cresaptown opposes St. Patrick's at 6:45 and St. Peter's of Westernport plays SS. Peter & Paul at 8.

Joe Nolan, of St. Ambrose, has racked up 265 points in 15 games for an average of 17.7 and apparently is headed for the scoring title this season. His closest competitor is Mickey Lantz, of St. Patrick's with 152 points and a 10.1 average while "Chuck" Fields of SS. Peter and Paul is third with 149 tallies and a 9.9 average. Cards Want Big Slugger

Offer Two Hurlers For Trading Bait

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals dangled two of their better pitchers—Vinegar Bend Mizell and Sad Sam Jones—as trading bait Wednesday for a slugger.

Bing Devine, the Cards' general manager, said the Redbirds would give up a front-line pitcher for a long-ball hitter because it might make the "difference" for the Cards who finished in a fifth place tie in the National League last season.

Devine mentioned Mizell and Jones. He also tossed Larry Jackson's name around but he talked mostly of Jackson as a 20-game winner possibility.

In doing that he left the impression either Jones, the Cardinals strikeout ace, or Wilmer Mizell from Vinegar Bend, Ala., their only established left-hander, could be had for the right slugger.

No sluggers were mentioned by name.

Giles Offers Two Changes In Baseball Rules

Suspended Game, Interference Cited

CINCINNATI (AP) — President Warren Giles of the National League said Wednesday he has proposed that changes be made in two baseball rules before the 1959 season opens.

One has to do with spectator interference with a batted ball. The other deals with suspended games.

Giles said he has asked Commissioner Ford Frick to conduct a mail vote of the Playing Rules Committee on his proposals.

The National League president would like to have spectator interference with a batted ball treated in the same manner as fan interference with a thrown ball.

Under the present rule when a thrown ball is interfered with on the field, while still in play, it immediately becomes dead. The umpire is empowered to impose such penalties as in his opinion will nullify the interference.

In the case of a batted ball, touched on the field by a spectator, the rule provides that all runners, including the batter, advance two bases.

He would change the rules to leave it up to the umpire to impose the penalty he feels would nullify either act of interference.

"I see no reason why there should be any difference between spectator interference with a thrown ball or a batted ball," Giles said.

Giles wants the suspended game rule changed so that an extra-inning game could be suspended. The present rule dictates that no game which has passed nine innings can be a suspended game.

Court Orders Racing License For Wheeling

WHEELING, W.Va. (UPI) — Ohio County Circuit Court Judge J. H. Brennan Wednesday ordered that a racing license be granted to the operators of Wheeling Downs to cover dates approved by the West Virginia Racing Commission.

The commission had allotted the dates from June 1 to July 25 and Sept. 7 to Oct. 31, 1959 to the Wheeling Racing Assn., but had refused to issue a license for the dates.

Judge Brennan, in rendering the decision, said "there is nothing in the statutes to indicate that when an application for a license is received, the commission may allot dates and refuse the license. Such procedure is silly." He said the license was withheld "without cause."

The commission can appeal Wednesday's court order.

Carrasquel Signs Baltimore Contract

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ex-Kansas City infielder Chico Carrasquel has signed his 1959 Baltimore Orioles contract, the club announced today.

The 31-year-old veteran of nine American League campaigns came to Baltimore in an October deal that sent Dick Williams to Kansas City.

Carrasquel underwent extensive dental work during the winter and the Oriole management hopes it will put renewed teeth in his field work. The four - times All - Star player will be battling Willy Miranda, Ron Hansen and Billy Klaus for the first string shortstopping assignment.

Court Refuses To Reconsider Dodger Decision

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The State Supreme Court Wednesday refused to reconsider its Jan. 13 decision approving the Los Angeles Dodgers' deal with the city for the Chavez Ravine Dodger stadium.

The high court's denial of the rehearing petition was without comment.

The rehearing had been sought by Louis Kirshbaum and Julius Ruben, Los Angeles taxpayers who have attacked the city's agreement with the baseball club in several court suits.

The high court's Jan. 13 decision gave the green light to plans for a 50,000-seat stadium in the Chavez Ravine.

It also approved other phases of the contract which included the sale of 300 acres in the ravine to the Dodgers.

Champ Gains Nod, Scores Knockdown

Defensive Prowess Aids Title Holder; Busso Is Aggressive

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Joltin' Joe Brown did very little jolting of challenger Johnny Busso Wednesday night, but scored one knockdown and piled up enough points to easily retain his world's lightweight championship with a unanimous decision.

The game little New York contender carried the fight to the brown-skinned Baton Rouge, La., belter, but he was never able to score a decisive blow and spent much of the night swinging wildly as the canny champion bobbed and weaved out of the way.

Brown, who weighed in at 134 to Busso's 135, sent the aggressive fourth - ranking contender sprawling through the lower ropes for a five-count in the ninth round with a wicked right cross and staggered him in the fourth with another right.

Defensive Prowess

But it was the wily champion's defensive prowess as much as his fighting ability that won him the nod from referee Jimmy Webb and judges Ernie Taylor and Bill Cornelius.

The champion, who now has turned in six successful defenses of the crown he took from Wallace (Bud) Smith 29 months ago, brought blood in the same fourth round that saw him stagger Busso.

Protects Himself

From that point on, Busso had to try to and protect himself and, he did a good job of it aside from that ninth round when Brown's right caught him flush and toppled him to the ring apron and through the lower ropes.

Busso, who had won an overweight decision from Brown five months ago in Miami Beach, Fla., by staying atop the champion and keeping him on the defense, tried much the same tactics Wednesday night.

But, this time Brown was ready for him. He let Busso bring the fight to him, but made him miss time and time again and when the challenger did connect it was little more than a flicking touch of the gloves.

Busso was game to the end, and in the 11th—although he obviously was tiring in this his first 15-round venture—he gave the crowd a thrill when he folded Brown with a left to the midsection. It wasn't a staggering blow, but from the way Brown reacted to it, the crowd thought it was a solid hit.

Busso's handlers managed to stop the bleeding for a short span, but they used so much vaseline doing so that the protective coating often splattered into his eye and hindered his vision.

The referee gave Busso only two rounds—the 13th and 15th—in scoring it 148-131 for Brown, while Cornelius scored it 149-140 and Taylor 147-138. The United Press International score card showed Brown leading 144-139.

KILLED — Marshall Teague, 37, former national stock car racing champion, was killed yesterday while making a speed run at the new Daytona Beach, Fla., speedway. He was trying to better the record of 177 miles per hour he set earlier this week.

Former AAA Stock Car Champ Killed

Marshall Teague Dies In Crackup

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Marshall Teague, 37, AAA national stock car champion in 1952 and 1954, was killed in the smash-up of his specially built Sumar streamliner at the new Daytona Beach Speedway Wednesday.

He had just finished a lap at 128 miles an hour but it was not known how fast he was going when his machine skidded on the west turn, flipped five times in the air and crashed.

Teague, a veteran racer, was shaking down the Sumar, an Indianapolis-type racer built in Terre Haute, Ind., and owned by Chapman Root, Ormond Beach millionaire.

Ben Taylor, a radio station announcer, said Teague's approach to the turn appeared normal, then the car seemed to list slightly. The nose went downhill and then hurtled into the air.

Sections of the car came off in the air and were strewn for 150 yards.

Teague's watch was later found in the middle of the track, still running.

Bill France, president of the speedway, said he saw no indication of tire or mechanical failure in the Sumar — "It looks like he lost control."

The speedway is being used for the first time this year. It is 2½ miles long, has smooth asphalt, is 65 feet wide in the turns and 54 on the straightaways. Each turn is banked 31 degrees.

Elliott Given New Contract At California

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—They tore up the contract of football Coach Pete Elliott at the University of California Wednesday and gave him and his six assistants new ones.

Salary figures and length of contracts were withheld.

Elliott's old contract, which still had a year to run, paid him $16,000 a year and was a three-year agreement.

From a 1-9 season in 1957 Elliott brough the Golden Bears to 7-2 winding up in the Rose Bowl.

Jensen Again Refuses To Ink Bosox Contract

Number Of Other Players Signed

By United Press International

A number of players signed their major league contracts Wednesday but Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox made the most news by returning his — unsigned.

Jensen, former California football star who was voted the American League's "Most Valuable Player" of 1958, said at his home in Oakland, Calif., that he wanted about $40,000 this year. That's about a third of the amount his teammate, Ted Williams, will get.

"My first contract wasn't what I asked for and mean to get," Jensen said.

In Boston, General Manager Bucky Harris said Jensen's contract "called for a substantial increase."

"It was a very satisfactory contract. I'm surprised he didn't sign it," Harris said.

Success With Malzone

Harris was able to announce that Frank Malzone has come to terms. Malzone, American League All-Star third baseman for the past two seasons, hit .295 in 1958.

Other baseball news Thursday:

—The New York Yankees announced that pitchers Murry Dickson and Ed Dick plus outfielder John Reed have signed, giving them 19 under contract. Dickson will be 43 in August.

—The Detroit Tigers announced that pitchers Pete Burnside and Don Lee and Maury Wills, a Negro infielder who hits right or left handed, have signed. The Tigers have 26 men in the fold.

—Outfielder Bobby Gene Smith and pitcher Bob Miller signed their contracts with the St. Louis Cardinals but General Manager Bing Devine said he and pitcher Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell had failed to come to terms.

Trowbridge Inks Pact

Bob Trowbridge, a right-handed pitcher who was used mostly in relief last season, signed his 1959 contract with the Milwaukee Braves. Trowbridge had a 1-3 record in 1958.

—Solly Drake, switch-hitting outfielder up from Montreal of the International League, became the 28th Dodger to return his signed contract. Drake was selected on the International League's All-Star team.

—The Chicago White Sox signed relief pitcher Turk Lown, giving the club 26 players under contract and 13 to go.

The White Sox obtained Lown, 34, from Cincinnati on waivers last June.

Giles Offers Two Changes In Baseball Rules

Suspended Game, Interference Cited

CINCINNATI (AP) — President Warren Giles of the National League said Wednesday he has proposed that changes be made in two baseball rules before the 1959 season opens.

One has to do with spectator interference with a batted ball. The other deals with suspended games.

Giles said he has asked Commissioner Ford Frick to conduct a mail vote of the Playing Rules Committee on his proposals.

The National League president would like to have spectator interference with a batted ball treated in the same manner as fan interference with a thrown ball.

Under the present rule, when a thrown ball is interfered with on the field, while still in play, it immediately becomes dead. The umpire is empowered to impose such penalties as in his opinion will nullify the interference.

We sincerely thank everyone who was so kind to us after the death of our beloved husband and father, John W. Snyder. We especially wish to thank Rev. Fink, the pallbearers, those who sent flowers and used their cars for the funeral. Also our friends and neighbors.

Opening lead: Queen of ♦.

One of the cardinal defensive sins in bridge is giving declarer a "ruff and sluff." Yet East could have employed this play to great advantage in defending today's slam contract had he been thinking clearly.

The final contract was reasonable, tho we would have been inclined to open North's hand with one heart. Observe the awkward rebid problem that would have confronted him had South responded with one diamond.

We have no fault to find with South's leap to slam. His hand had an original valuation of 12 points which is increased to 13 by the addition of a point for the fifth heart, after the suit has been supported. North may be expected to produce at least 20 points and South has two first round controls.

West opened the queen of diamonds which was taken by declarer. He made an effort to drop the queen of trumps, but East proved to have a sure trick in the suit. Declarer then ruffed the remaining diamond. He now cashed the top clubs. East was thrown into the lead a moment later with the queen of trumps. Observing that either a diamond or club continuation would permit declarer to ruff in one hand while he discarded a spade from the other, East chose to lead the deuce of spades.

South put in the nine, forcing West's queen. The king was played from dummy and the suit returned, declared finessing the ten. When West followed the rest of the tricks were his.

It is true, as East reasoned, that a diamond return would have provided declarer with a spade discard, but he had failed to calculate that the discard would not be helpful to South for he would still have a spade loser.

The count on the hand is relatively easy. Declarer is known to have five hearts, one diamond and three clubs. He, theretore, held four spades, and since one discard would not help him. East should have led a third round of diamonds.

Terps Lose Two Gridders

Forbes, Becker Fail Academically

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Halfback John Forbes and end Ed Becker were dropped from the University of Maryland Wednesday because of academic difficulties.

Forbes, second team junior back from Basking Ridge, N. J., said two weeks ago he "didn't have a chance" to get by midyear exams. The loss of Becker to the Terp squad came as a surprise.

Both players petitioned for readmission but their request was turned down. They were the only players from the 1958 Terp squad to fail.

Forbes, a hard-running 190 pounder, and Becker, a sophomore from Quakertown, Pa., were expected to give Maryland's new football coach, Tom Nugent, added punch this year.

Forbes accounted for two of the Terps' four victories last season while Becker was counted on to team with Dick Scarbath as Maryland's top aerial threat.

Sooner State League Folds

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The class D Sooner State Baseball League Wednesday gave up a three-month attempt to reorganize and announced it will not operate in 1959.

League President Bob Reynolds said only the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies had promised working agreements to members of the proposed six-team loop.

Bill Would Permit County Licenses

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill introduced in the House Wednesday would provide for the issuance of county hunting and fishing licenses in West Virginia.

The measure, sponsored by Dels. William McCoy (D-Pendleton) and J. C. Cruikshank (D-Clay) calls for a fee of $2 for a hunting or fishing permit or $3 for a combination.

Tax Extension Is Opposed By Contractors

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee was warned Wednesday that West Virginia would lose and not gain revenue if the Legislature extends the consumers sales tax to contractors.

A spokesman for the Associated General Contractors of West Virginia said extension of the 2 per cent levy to contracting work would drive new industry away from the state and cause "a downward slide in the rate of gross sales tax return, as well as a loss of jobs to West Virginians."

The statement was made by James M. Jarvis of Clarksburg, legislative committee chairman of the AGC and one of several industry and labor union representatives who spoke against the bill at a committee hearing.

State Tax Department officials estimate that the bill, plus a companion measure laying a "use" tax on equipment brought into the state by out of state contractors, would raise some $5,000,000 a year.

William J. Emch of Wheeling, vice president of the AGC, said the bill is a "punitive thing" and that the construction business already is being "gouged" because of the pyramiding of the gross sales tax on general contractors and subcontractors on the same work.

Beckley contractor Leo Vecellio said the building industry is not opposed to increased taxes but that they should be on a broad basis such as an income tax.

V. N. Green of Charleston, president of the West Virginia Contractors Assn., said the building industry would "go along with an income tax and not with one which discriminates against the contracting industry."

Others appearing in opposition to the bill included James E. Swan of Wheeling, executive secretary of the Ohio Valley Builders Exchange; Miles Stanley of Charleston, president of the West Virginia Labor Federation; William Marsh, Fairmont, legislative representative of United Mine Workers District 31, and James Leeber of Beckley, legislative representative of UMW District 29.

THE BEST remedy for your wants and don't-wants doesn't come in a bottle of medicine but in just a few words in the want ads. Tell thousands of people for a few cents a day.

TO FIND the right Mr. Fixit just look for him in the want ad columns. A specialized expert can do your job better, faster and more economically and do it permanently.

REALIZING that a sixty dollar a month apartment costs you two dollars every day it is unrented doesn't it seem foolish not to be running it for rent ad at the monthly rate that only cuns thirty-seven cents a day and would probably rent the apartment.

Opening lead: Queen of ♦.

One of the cardinal defensive sins in bridge is giving declarer a "ruff and sluff." Yet East could have employed this play to great advantage in defending today's slam contract had he been thinking clearly.

The final contract was reasonable, tho we would have been inclined to open North's hand with one heart. Observe the awkward rebid problem that would have confronted him had South responded with one diamond.

We have no fault to find with South's leap to slam. His hand had an original valuation of 12 points which is increased to 13 by the addition of a point for the fifth heart, after the suit has been supported. North may be expected to produce at least 20 points and South has two first round controls.

West opened the queen of diamonds which was taken by declarer. He made an effort to drop the queen of trumps, but East proved to have a sure trick in the suit. Declarer then ruffed the remaining diamond. He now cashed the top clubs. East was thrown into the lead a moment later with the queen of trumps. Observing that either a diamond or club continuation would permit declarer to ruff in one hand while he discarded a spade from the other, East chose to lead the deuce of spades.

South put in the nine, forcing West's queen. The king was played from dummy and the suit returned, declared finessing the ten. When West followed the rest of the tricks were his.

It is true, as East reasoned, that a diamond return would have provided declarer with a spade discard, but he had failed to calculate that the discard would not be helpful to South for he would still have a spade loser.

The count on the hand is relatively easy. Declarer is known to have five hearts, one diamond and three clubs. He, theretore, held four spades, and since one discard would not help him. East should have led a third round of diamonds.

The club will meet on March 6 at the home of John Baker, at which time the subject will be "Crafts."

Terps Lose Two Gridders

Forbes, Becker Fail Academically

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Halfback John Forbes and end Ed Becker were dropped from the University of Maryland Wednesday because of academic difficulties.

Forbes, second team junior back from Basking Ridge, N. J., said two weeks ago he "didn't have a chance" to get by midyear exams. The loss of Becker to the Terp squad came as a surprise.

Both players petitioned for readmission but their request was turned down. They were the only players from the 1958 Terp squad to fail.

Forbes, a hard - running 190 pounder, and Becker, a sophomore from Quakertown, Pa., were expected to give Maryland's new football coach, Tom Nugent, added punch this year.

Forbes accounted for two of the Terps' four victories last season while Becker was counted on to team with Dick Scarbath as Maryland's top aerial threat.

Sooner State League Folds

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The class D Sooner State Baseball League Wednesday gave up a three-month attempt to reorganize and announced it will not operate in 1959.

League President Bob Reynolds said only the St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies had promised working agreements to members of the proposed six-team loop.

Bill Would Permit County Licenses

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill introduced in the House Wednesday would provide for the issuance of county hunting and fishing licenses in West Virginia.

The measure, sponsored by Dels. William McCoy (D - Pendleton) and J. C. Cruikshank (D-Clay) calls for a fee of $2 for a hunting or fishing permit or $3 for a combination.

Tax Extension Is Opposed By Contractors

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee was warned Wednesday that West Virginia would lose and not gain revenue if the Legislature extends the consumers sales tax to contractors.

A spokesman for the Associated General Contractors of West Virginia said extension of the 2 per cent levy to contracting work would drive new industry away from the state and cause "a downward slide in the rate of gross sales tax return, as well as a loss of jobs to West Virginians."

The statement was made by James M. Jarvis of Clarksburg, legislative committee chairman of the AGC and one of several industry and labor union representatives who spoke against the bill at a committee hearing.

State Tax Department officials estimate that the bill, plus a companion measure laying a "use" tax on equipment brought into the state by out of state contractors, would raise some $5,000,000 a year.

William J. Emch of Wheeling, vice president of the AGC, said the bill is a "punitive thing" and that the construction business already is being "gouged" because of the pyramiding of the gross sales tax on general contractors and subcontractors on the same work.

Beckley contractor Leo Vecellio said the building industry is not opposed to increased taxes but that they should be on a broad basis such as an income tax.

V. N. Green of Charleston, president of the West Virginia Contractors Assn., said the building industry would "go along with an income tax and not with one which discriminates against the contracting industry."

Others appearing in opposition to the bill included James E. Swan of Wheeling, executive secretary of the Ohio Valley Builders Exchange; Miles Stanley of Charleston, president of the West Virginia Labor Federation; William Marsh, Fairmont, legislative representative of United Mine Workers District 31, and James Leeber of Beckley, legislative representative of UMW District 29.

Rails' Substantial Gain Features Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rail shares took over the stock market limelight when industrials faltered on profit-taking.

Industrials, up more than 3 points on average at the day's best, held little more than a point of this rise in the face of realizing after Tuesday's 4 billion dollar gain.

Rails, however, bolstered by gains of 2⅝ points in Kansas City Southern and 2⅛ in Louisville and Nashville, picked up nearly a point in their average—a substantially wider gain than industrials on a percentage basis.

A few blue chips held gains of a point to 2 in the industrials. American Telephone was up 1⅝. Eastman Kodak 2 points, Allied Chemical, National Steel, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, International Harvester, Chrysler Corp. around a point each.

Chrysler was a late feature, rising on good volume in advance of a directors' meeting after the market close. The company, depite a net loss of $33,824,565 for 1958, maintained the 25 cent quarterly dividend on common stock. Chrysler, which has had production stoppages because of a glass shortage, is recalling workers and it appeared that the Pittsburgh Plate Glass strike has been settled.

Ford also rose around a point while other motors held unchanged. American Motors, General Motors and Chrysler all made the 15 most active issues.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains closed in a downward direction Wednesday, mostly easy and steady, on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed off ¼ to ⅜ cent; corn old unchanged; new off ¾ to up ⅜ cent; oats unchanged to off ¼ cent; rye off ½ to 1¼ cents; soybeans off ⅛ to ¾ cent.

March wheat scored its highest price since November when it sold at $2 a bushel early Wednesday. It later dropped, as did all other wheat contracts, under pressure of commission house selling. Buying by commercial interests was too weak to snap the general decline of the market, and March closed off ¼, others ½ to ⅞ cent lower. The only export sale recorded was Japan's purchase of 375,000 bushels western white.

A mixed trade in corn left prices mostly steady. New December gained ⅝ cent, but other deliveries remained unchanged or lower by ¼ cent.

Some speculative selling and liquidation featured oats. March and September slipped ¼ cent. A firmer basis was evident in spot business. With the basis up ½ cent, extra heavy white oats sold near the 69¼ level.

Lack of interest pushed rye lower, in some instances by 1¼ cents. March rye managed to stop its recession at $1.36¼.

After early strength, soybeans turned weaker. Nearby March and May dropped ⅝ cent each and July ⅜. Northwest brokers and commission houses were quite active.

Grains at outside markets were steady. The range:

Rails' Substantial Gain Features Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rail shares took over the stock market limelight when industrials faltered on profit-taking.

Industrials, up more than 3 points on average at the day's best, held little more than a point of this rise in the face of realizing after Tuesday's 4 billion dollar gain.

Rails, however, bolstered by gains of 2⅝ points in Kansas City Southern and 2⅛ in Louisville and Nashville, picked up nearly a point in their average—a substantially wider gain than industrials on a percentage basis.

A few blue chips held gains of a point to 2 in the industrials. American Telephone was up 1⅝, Eastman Kodak 2 points, Allied Chemical, National Steel, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, International Harvester, Chrysler Corp. around a point each.

Chrysler was a late feature, rising on good volume in advance of a directors' meeting after the market close. The company, depite a net loss of $33,824,565 for 1958, maintained the 25 cent quarterly dividend on common stock. Chrysler, which has had production stoppages because of a glass shortage, is recalling workers and it appeared that the Pittsburgh Plate Glass strike has been settled.

Ford also rose around a point while other motors held unchanged. American Motors, General Motors and Chrysler all made the 15 most active issues.

Butter offerings generally ample. Demand fair. Receipts 580,000. Prices unchanged.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains closed in a downward direction Wednesday, mostly easy and steady, on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed off ¼ to ⅝ cent; corn old unchanged; new off ¼ to up ⅝ cent; oats unchanged to off ¼ cent; rye off ½ to 1¼ cents; soybeans off ⅛ to ¾ cent.

March wheat scored its highest price since November when it sold at $2 a bushel early Wednesday. It later dropped, as did all other wheat contracts, under pressure of commission house selling. Buying by commercial interests was too weak to snap the general decline of the market, and March closed off ¼, others ½ to ⅞ cent lower. The only export sale recorded was Japan's purchase of 375,000 bushels western white.

A mixed trade in corn left prices mostly steady. New December gained ⅝ cent, but other deliveries remained unchanged or lower by ¼ cent.

Some speculative selling and liquidation featured oats. March and September slipped ¾ cent. A firmer basis was evident in spot business. With the basis up ½ cent, extra heavy white oats sold near the 69¼ level.

Lack of interest pushed rye lower, in some instances by 1¼ cents. March rye managed to stop its recession at $1.36¼.

After early strength, soybeans turned weaker. Nearby March and May dropped ⅝ cent each and July ⅜. Northwest brokers and commission houses were quite active.

Grains at outside markets were steady. The range:

PPG, Union Agree To End Long Strike

Glass Workers To Vote On Settlement Terms

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Union and management negotiators reached agreement Wednesday for settling a 126-day strike of 13,000 Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. workers.

Terms of the proposal were not disclosed, but it calls for submission of points not yet settled by agreement in the tangled, interwoven issues to an arbitration commission. The commission's findings would be final and binding.

The two-year proposal will be submitted to the union membership for ratification by secret ballot, possibly next Monday.

(A spokesman for Local 180, which represents workers at Works 7 in Cumberland, said he was informed the election will be conducted by an outside party and that an international officer will be here to give a report to the membership prior to the vote.)

Acceptance could mean full production would be restored at the company's nine plants in six states by the end of next week since furnaces have been kept hot during the protracted walkout. In the past few weeks, the strike caused a windshield shortage which idled more than 20,000 Chrysler Corp. employes.

In Detroit, Chrysler estimated that its operations could be resumed within 3 to 10 days after settlement of the glass strike. The company managed to get glass from other sources, however, and had resumed some limited operations.

3 Chrysler Plants Down

At present, Chrysler has a total of three plants down, with 14,800 workers idle—Plymout body and assembly plants in Detroit, with 6,200 out, the Los Angeles assembly plant, with 1,800, and the Newark, Del., assembly plant, with 3,400.

The Evansville, Ind., assembly plant had been down with 3,400 workers, but was scheduled to resume operations a week from Wednesday.

Ralph Reiser, international president of the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union, paved the way for the agreement by dismissing a 19-man core in the member negotiating committee.

Reiser acted under constitutional authority after the negotiating committee was unable to agree on a settlement formula hammered out by Reiser and four other international officers. Reiser then presented the proposal to the company and it was accepted.

"Glad It's Over"

Both Reiser and Donald J. Sherbondy, industrial relations director of the company, sighed with a "glad it's over" comment. The negotiations had been conducted since last September and had shifted to four cities before coming here last Jan. 7.

Reiser said the "fact that we submitted" the proposal to management indicates "we think it is fair." He said terms will be submitted to the membership by letter and that the international will strongly recommend acceptance.

Sherbondy said agreement was reached primarily because the parties were able to agree on the number of unsettled issues to be submitted to arbitration. During the past several days, the company has made a number of concessions on "local plant issues."

Company plants closed by the strike are located at Ford City and Creighton, Pa.; Crystal City, Mo.; Cumberland, Md.; Clarksburg, W. Va.; Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and Henryetta, Okla.

Committee Dismissed

The Philadelphia phase of the negotiations were sponsored by a three-man Federal Mediation team headed by Regional Director Robert W. Donnahoo. He was assisted by James G. Bentley and Hayward J. Montoney.

Reiser explained the steps leading to his dismissal of the negotiating committee, which had been unable to come to a majority agreement on action, let alone unanimously as required by the constitution.

The union president said that when the committee was unable to reach a conclusion, the international officers drew up a program. When the committee failed to approve it, Reiser dismissed the group and took the proposal to the company.

Creighton Plant Could Be Hitch In Settlement

PHILADELPHIA Pa. (AP) — Weary negotiators, apparently on the verge of breaking off their talks, did a dramatic about face Wednesday and reached a conditional agreement to end the 129-day Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. strike.

The 13,000 members of the striking United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union must ratify the agreement—and there were indications a hitch might develop.

The hitch could develop through a section of the union constitution thar provides all plants involved must approve the contract. One person close to the negotiations said the question of seniority provisions within a plant at Creighton, Pa., could provide a stumbling block to acceptance there.

Traffic Club Hears Talk On Truck Industry

America is undergoing its second major revolution in transportation in 125 years, W. C. Irving, Martinsburg, W. Va., president of Harris Motor Express and a director of the American Trucking Association, told members of the Tri-State Traffic Club here last night.

At the regular meeting held in the Elks Home, Mr. Irving was introduced by Joseph E. Lewis, president of the local association.

Mr. Irving observed that in the period from 1830 to 1860 railroads challenged the canals and turnpikes of that day and made a noteworthy contribution to the rapid expansion and development of the nation.

At the time of World War I, in 1917, there were only 215,000 trucks in operation in the whole country. Today, this vast industry of movement has expanded to ten and a half million vehicles, providing jobs for seven million men and women to keep the huge fleet serviced and running, he declared.

Sixteen per cent of the vehicles on the nation's highways today, he said, are trucks. Because of the larger tires, greater gas consumption and other factors, trucks provide about 33 per cent of the total taxes collected from highway users, he observed.

Mr. Irving noted that truck drivers and fleet operators have grown more and more safety conscious. Since 1948 there has been a six per cent drop in accidents involving trucks. He concluded that statistics show that trucks are involved in only 11 per cent of all highway mishaps, yet they comprise 16 per cent of the vehicles on the highways and log more miles per vehicle than privately owned automobiles.

Next month, the Traffic Club plans to hear a speaker on the subject of "Railroads."

Senator Gonder Enters Garrett Hospital Bill

Senator Bernard I. Gonder (D-Garrett) has introduced a bill providing for the incorporation of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and relating to the selection of its board of governors.

It is Senate Bill 255, which would make the board of governors a political and corporate body which would have perpetual succession and the right to operate the hospital as fully as if incorporated for such purpose under state law.

The proposal also provides that the three members of the board selected by the County Commissioners of Garrett County, one from each of the three districts, shall serve for a period of two years, beginning July 1, 1959.

Under current legislation, the three board members named by the commissioners serve one-year terms.

The board of governors includes the three Garrett County Commissioners and eight others, including two Garrett residents selected by the two Oakland banks, the president of the Town Council of Oakland; Mrs. Lorilla F. Tower, or upon her death, resignation or failure to act, the president of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross; one person elected by the Garrett County Medical Association or the medical staff of the hospital and the three members named by the County Commissioners.

Economic Development Bill Approved By House

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes' proposal to create an Economic Development Commission for Maryland breezed past the halfway mark in the Legislature Wednesday.

The House passed the bill with no discussion after the Ways and Means Committee ironed out a few wrinkles to expand the membership and give the commission more money to start work with.

The Senate also is expected to give ready approval to the proposal, which Tawes endorsed in his campaign as a spur to industrial development and tourist and recreational promotion in the state.

As amended in the House, the bill calls for a 12-member commission consisting of two representatives each from the Eastern Shore, Southern Maryland, Central Maryland, Western Maryland, Baltimore City and two at large.

One of them will be designated as chairman to serve at the pleasure of the governor.

The commission will be given a maximum initial appropriation of $175,000 to start its promotional activities. This will include the $62,000 recommended for the Department of Information in the governor's new budget. The department and its tourist promotion functions will be absorbed by the new agency, whose employes will be under the State Merit System except for the $15,000 a year director.

Hearing Is Set On Supervisors Overtime Pay

Senate Backs Plan To Ease Court Work

State Senator Charles M. See said yesterday that the Senate Finance Committee will hold a hearing February 19 at 11 a.m. on his Senate Bill 247 affecting overtime of State Roads Commission supervisors.

He said the hearing was scheduled yesterday by Senator Edward S. Northrup (D-Montgomery), chairman of the committee.

The bill, he said, provides for the payment of accumulated overtime compensation to SRC employes who, because "they have been wrongly designated as supervisors" did not receive such overtime compensation when it was due.

Senator See said the bill would amend Senate Bill 25, adopted last year, and covers those men who have been working more than 40 hours a week in their capacity as supervisors.

SRC To Testify

He said the action resulted from men being named supervisors when they had nobody to supervise.

Senator See termed the action an attempt to circumvent the 40-hour week.

Expected to attend the hearing are officials of the State Roads Commission; Russell S. Davis, state commissioner of personnel, and Charles Harris, member of the Standard Salary Board.

SB 183, sponsored by Senator See, passed the Senate yesterday and was sent to the House. It would ease the burden of cases going before the Allegany County Circuit Court by extending the limitation of trial magistrates in civil cases from $300 to $500.

SB 150, also sponsored by the Allegany County senator, passed its second reading in the Senate yesterday and is slated for final action in that house this week.

The proposal would boost the funeral allowances which can be paid for old-age assistance recipient from $100 to $150, with costs shared 2-1 by the state and county.

Will Enter Bill

Senator See expects to introduce this week a bill which would require Allegany County to pay the full cost of the Juvenile Court.

He said the Department of Legislative Reference has advised the bill should be ready today or tomorrow. It would eliminate the present $2,500 a year the City of Cumberland now must contribute toward the court.

The City of Cumberland has protested the bill as double taxation and has asked Allegany County legislators to sponsor corrective legislation.

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners agreed to support the legislation at a meeting with the Mayor and Council Tuesday night.

The sum amounts to about ⅛ of a cent on the city tax rate.

House Approves Court Library Bill

The House of Delegates last night passed House Bill 201, sponsored by the Allegany County Delegation.

The bill would increase from $1,000 to $3,000 the annual limit on funds which the Allegany County Circuit Court may ask from the county commissioners toward the support of the court library.

National Guard Will Get Tanks

29th Infantry Division Is Being Modernized To 'Pentomic' Status

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

As a means of increasing the defensive power and the striking force of the nation's military establishment, the Defense Department is planning a reorganization and realignment of practically all military units, including the Maryland National Guard.

Considerable interest has been aroused locally among military-minded men over a projected program to convert the famous 29th Infantry Division into a modern-day Pentomic Division.

What this means, on paper at least, will be the passing into the pages of history, of Maryland's famous 115th Infantry Regiment and the 175th Infantry Regiment, and Virginia's 116th Infantry Regiment, to be replaced by five new and modernly equipped battle groups, made up largely of medium tank companies.

Three of these battle groups or combat arms groups will be in Maryland and two in Virginia, since the 29th Division is composed of guard units in both states.

At the local area level, there will be no major changes in command, but unit personnel and equipment are greatly affected.

One battle group is assigned to Western Maryland, including Oakland, Frostburg, Cumberland and Hagerstown. The guard unit at Frederick, now a part of the local 2nd Battalion, 115th Regiment, will be assigned to another battle group.

Work Has Begun

Cumberland will house, in its new armory on the West Side, Battalion Headquarters, Headquarters and Service Company, and Company C. There will be a company at Oakland, one at Frostburg and two at Hagerstown, to complete the battalion.

According to Col. Randolph Millholland, commander of the 115th Infantry Regiment, work on this reorganization has already begun and the conversion from Infantry companies to Tank Companies will take only a few weeks. After that, training, schooling and much specialization will be necessary.

Lt. Col. Robert C. Matlick, commander of the 2nd Battalion, said the change has been anticipated for some time, and that plans for a recruit drive will be announced shortly.

Col. Matlick also observed that no major changes in unit command are anticipated. Capt. Patsy Algieri will continue to command Headquarters Company here and Capt. Eugene M. Light will continue in command of Company C.

More Recruitment

Capt. Paul B. Lord, the Army's permanent duty instructor assigned to the battalion here, said a vast amount of work has already been done toward the forming of the pentomic division, and that a meeting was held here earlier this week with staff officers from the area and Baltimore, as well as representatives of the Army Recruiting service from Cumberland and Fairmont.

It will be necessary, he observed, to recruit more men for each unit and present personnel are expressing keen interest in the idea of tank companies.

Each tank company, he stated, is to receive 17 medium tanks, known as M-48. Each weighs about 50,000 pounds and mounts a 90 mm. gun in addition to other armament.

Headquarters Company will be equipped with two M-48 tanks, plus 10 full-track personnel carriers and a number of lesser vehicles, such as jeeps.

This means that there will be 19 M-48 tanks stationed at Cumberland, 17 at Frostburg, 17 at Oakland and 34 at Hagerstown, to round out the battalion's impact power.

The personnel of each tank company is designed to include five officers and 97 enlisted men. Headquarters and Headquarters and Service Company will total 19 officers, four warrant officers and 224 enlisted men.

Special Skills Needed

The tank outfits here will require, Col. Millholland pointed out, many men with special skills and training.

Needed are some 50 radio operators in Headquarters Company alone. Other specialists to be recruited or trained include tank drivers, tank maintenance men, telephone operators and communications specialists, signalmen.

Keyser Man Fatally Hurt In Auto Crash

A 23-year-old Keyser man was killed instantly early yesterday in a one-car accident along the Fort Ashby-Keyser Road.

Victim of the mishap was Robert Dale Urice of RD 2, Keyser, who was pronounced dead on arrival at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser.

Cpl. Evan Moody of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Keyser said the accident occurred on State Route 46 about four miles west of Fort Ashby.

Cpl. Moody said it is believed the victim was riding alone at the time of the crash.

Police said their investigation revealed that Urice was traveling along a straight section of the road when he lost control of his automobile.

Police said the car left the right side of the highway along Patterson Creek and traveled approximately 250 feet at the top of the embankment. At this point police said the vehicle "shot" 52 feet into the air before coming to rest against a large tree near the foot of the embankment.

Police said apparently the only reason the vehicle didn't drop into Patterson Creek was because of its high rate of speed which kept it suspended in air.

The car was demolished and the victim was pinned under the wreckage.

The accident was first discovered around 2 a. m. by Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police who was off duty at the time. Trooper Oliver telephoned Cpl. Moody and an ambulance.

Urice was employed by the Potomac Farms Dairy.

He was a son of Alonzo D. and Margie (Shillingburg) Urice of RD 2, Keyser.

Besides his parents, he is susvived by a son, Robert Dale Urice Jr., at home.

PPG, Union Agree To End Long Strike

Glass Workers To Vote On Settlement Terms

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Union and management negotiators reached agreement Wednesday for settling a 126-day strike of 13,000 Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. workers.

Terms of the proposal were not disclosed, but it calls for submission of points not yet settled by agreement in the tangled, interwoven issues to an arbitration commission. The commission's findings would be final and binding.

The two-year proposal will be submitted to the union membership for ratification by secret ballot, possibly next Monday.

(A spokesman for Local 180, which represents workers at Works 7 in Cumberland, said he was informed the election will be conducted by an outside party and that an international officer will be here to give a report to the membership prior to the vote.)

Acceptance could mean full production would be restored at the company's nine plants in six states by the end of next week since furnaces have been kept hot during the protracted walkout. In the past few weeks, the strike caused a windshield shortage which idled more than 20,000 Chrysler Corp. employes.

In Detroit, Chrysler estimated that its operations could be resumed within 3 to 10 days after settlement of the glass strike. The company managed to get glass from other sources, however, and had resumed some limited operations.

3 Chrysler Plants Down

At present, Chrysler has a total of three plants down, with 14,800 workers idle—Plymout body and assembly plants in Detroit, with 6,200 out, the Los Angeles assembly plant, with 1,800, and the Newark, Del., assembly plant, with 3,400.

The Evansville, Ind., assembly plant had been down with 3,400 workers, but was scheduled to resume operations a week from Wednesday.

Ralph Reiser, international president of the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union, paved the way for the agreement by dismissing a 19-man core in the member negotiating committee.

Reiser acted under constitutional authority after the negotiating committee was unable to agree on a settlement formula hammered out by Reiser and four other international officers. Reiser then presented the proposal to the company and it was accepted.

"Glad It's Over"

Both Reiser and Donald J. Sherbondy, industrial relations director of the company, sighed with a "glad it's over" comment. The negotiations had been conducted since last September and had shifted to four cities before coming here last Jan. 7.

Reiser said the "fact that we submitted" the proposal to management indicates "we think it is fair." He said terms will be submitted to the membership by letter and that the international will strongly recommend acceptance.

Sherbondy said agreement was reached primarily because the parties were able to agree on the number of unsettled issues to be submitted to arbitration. During the past several days, the company has made a number of concessions on "local plant issues."

Company plants closed by the strike are located at Ford City and Creighton, Pa.; Crystal City, Mo.; Cumberland, Md.; Clarksburg, W. Va.; Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and Henryetta, Okla.

Committee Dismissed

The Philadelphia phase of the negotiations were sponsored by a three-man Federal Mediation team headed by Regional Director Robert W. Donnahoo. He was assisted by James G. Bentley and Hayward J. Montoney.

Reiser explained the steps leading to his dismissal of the negotiating committee, which had been unable to come to a majority agreement on action, let alone unanimously as required by the constitution.

The union president said that when the committee was unable to reach a conclusion, the international officers drew up a program. When the committee failed to approve it, Reiser dismissed the group and took the proposal to the company.

Creighton Plant Could Be Hitch In Settlement

PHILADELPHIA Pa. (AP) — Weary negotiators, apparently on the verge of breaking off their talks, did a dramatic about face Wednesday and reached a conditional agreement to end the 129-day Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. strike.

The 13,000 members of the striking United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union must ratify the agreement—and there were indications a hitch might develop.

The hitch could develop through a section of the union constitution thar provides all plants involved must approve the contract. One person close to the negotiations said the question of seniority provisions within a plant at Creighton, Pa., could provide a stumbling block to acceptance there.

Traffic Club Hears Talk On Truck Industry

America is undergoing its second major revolution in transportation in 125 years, W. C. Irving, Martinsburg, W. Va., president of Harris Motor Express and a director of the American Trucking Association, told members of the Tri-State Traffic Club here last night.

At the regular meeting held in the Elks Home, Mr. Irving was introduced by Joseph E. Lewis, president of the local association.

Mr. Irving observed that in the period from 1830 to 1860 railroads challenged the canals and turnpikes of that day and made a noteworthy contribution to the rapid expansion and development of the nation.

At the time of World War I, in 1917, there were only 215,000 trucks in operation in the whole country. Today, this vast industry of movement has expanded to ten and a half million vehicles, providing jobs for seven million men and women to keep the huge fleet serviced and running, he declared.

Sixteen per cent of the vehicles on the nation's highways today, he said, are trucks. Because of the larger tires, greater gas consumption and other factors, trucks provide about 33 per cent of the total taxes collected from highway users, he observed.

Mr. Irving noted that truck drivers and fleet operators have grown more and more safety conscious. Since 1948 there has been a six per cent drop in accidents involving trucks. He concluded that statistics show that trucks are involved in only 11 per cent of all highway mishaps, yet they comprise 16 per cent of the vehicles on the highways and log more miles per vehicle than privately owned automobiles.

Next month, the Traffic Club plans to hear a speaker on the subject of "Railroads."

Senator Gonder Enters Garrett Hospital Bill

Senator Bernard I. Gonder (D-Garrett) has introduced a bill providing for the incorporation of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and relating to the selection of its board of governors.

It is Senate Bill 255, which would make the board of governors a political and corporate body which would have perpetual succession and the right to operate the hospital as fully as if incorporated for such purpose under state law.

The proposal also provides that the three members of the board selected by the County Commissioners of Garrett County, one from each of the three districts, shall serve for a period of two years, beginning July 1, 1959.

Under current legislation, the three board members named by the commissioners serve one-year terms.

The board of governors includes the three Garrett County Commissioners and eight others, including two Garrett residents selected by the two Oakland banks, the president of the Town Council of Oakland; Mrs. Lorilla F. Tower, or upon her death, resignation or failure to act, the president of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross; one person elected by the Garrett County Medical Association or the medical staff of the hospital and the three members named by the County Commissioners.

Economic Development Bill Approved By House

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes' proposal to create an Economic Development Commission for Maryland breezed past the halfway mark in the Legislature Wednesday.

The House passed the bill with no discussion after the Ways and Means Committee ironed out a few wrinkles to expand the membership and give the commission more money to start work with.

The Senate also is expected to give ready approval to the proposal, which Tawes endorsed in his campaign as a spur to industrial development and tourist and recreational promotion in the state.

As amended in the House, the bill calls for a 12-member commission consisting of two representatives each from the Eastern Shore, Southern Maryland, Central Maryland, Western Maryland, Baltimore City and two at large.

One of them will be designated as chairman to serve at the pleasure of the governor.

The commission will be given a maximum initial appropriation of $175,000 to start its promotional activities. This will include the $62,000 recommended for the Department of Information in the governor's new budget. The department and its tourist promotion functions will be absorbed by the new agency, whose employes will be under the State Merit System except for the $15,000 a year director.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Hearing Is Set On Supervisors Overtime Pay

Senate Backs Plan To Ease Court Work

State Senator Charles M. See said yesterday that the Senate Finance Committee will hold a hearing February 19 at 11 a.m. on his Senate Bill 247 affecting overtime of State Roads Commission supervisors.

He said the hearing was scheduled yesterday by Senator Edward S. Northrup (D-Montgomery), chairman of the committee.

The bill, he said, provides for the payment of accumulated overtime compensation to SRC employes who, because "they have been wrongly designated as supervisors" did not receive such overtime compensation when it was due.

Senator See said the bill would amend Senate Bill 25, adopted last year, and covers those men who have been working more than 40 hours a week in their capacity as supervisors.

SRC To Testify

He said the action resulted from men being named supervisors when they had nobody to supervise.

Senator See termed the action an attempt to circumvent the 40-hour week.

Expected to attend the hearing are officials of the State Roads Commission: Russell S. Davis, state commissioner of personnel, and Charles Harris, member of the Standard Salary Board.

SB 183, sponsored by Senator See, passed the Senate yesterday and was sent to the House. It would ease the burden of cases going before the Allegany County Circuit Court by extending the limitation of trial magistrates in civil cases from $300 to $500.

SB 150, also sponsored by the Allegany County senator, passed its second reading in the Senate yesterday and is slated for final action in that house this week.

The proposal would boost the funeral allowances which can be paid for old-age assistance recipient from $100 to $150, with costs shared 2-1 by the state and county.

Will Enter Bill

Senator See expects to introduce this week a bill which would require Allegany County to pay the full cost of the Juvenile Court.

He said the Department of Legislative Reference has advised the bill should be ready today or tomorrow. It would eliminate the present $2,500 a year the City of Cumberland now must contribute toward the court.

The City of Cumberland has protested the bill as double taxation and has asked Allegany County legislators to sponsor corrective legislation.

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners agreed to support the legislation at a meeting with the Mayor and Council Tuesday night.

The sum amounts to about ½ of a cent on the city tax rate.

House Approves Court Library Bill

The House of Delegates last night passed House Bill 201, sponsored by the Allegany County Delegation.

The bill would increase from $1,000 to $3,000 the annual limit on funds which the Allegany County Circuit Court may ask from the county commissioners toward the support of the court library.

National Guard Will Get Tanks

29th Infantry Division Is Being Modernized To 'Pentomic' Status

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

As a means of increasing the defensive power and the striking force of the nation's military establishment, the Defense Department is planning a reorganization and realignment of practically all military units, including the Maryland National Guard.

Considerable interest has been aroused locally among military-minded men over a projected program to convert the famous 29th Infantry Division into a modern-day Pentomic Division.

What this means, on paper at least, will be the passing into the pages of history, of Maryland's famous 115th Infantry Regiment and the 175th Infantry Regiment, and Virginia's 116th Infantry Regiment, to be replaced by five new and modernly equipped battle groups, made up largely of medium tank companies.

Three of these battle groups or combat arms groups will be in Maryland and two in Virginia, since the 29th Division is composed of guard units in both states.

At the local area level, there will be no major changes in command, but unit personnel and equipment are greatly affected.

One battle group is assigned to Western Maryland, including Oakland, Frostburg, Cumberland and Hagerstown. The guard unit at Frederick, now a part of the local 2nd Battalion, 115th Regiment, will be assigned to another battle group.

Work Has Begun

Cumberland will house, in its new armory on the West Side, Battalion Headquarters, Headquarters and Service Company, and Company C. There will be a company at Oakland, one at Frostburg and two at Hagerstown, to complete the battalion.

According to Col. Randolph Millholland, commander of the 115th Infantry Regiment, work on this reorganization has already begun and the conversion from Infantry companies to Tank Companies will take only a few weeks. After that, training, schooling and much specialization will be necessary.

Lt. Col. Robert C. Matlick, commander of the 2nd Battalion, said the change has been anticipated for some time, and that plans for a recruit drive will be announced shortly.

Col. Matlick also observed that no major changes in unit command are anticipated. Capt. Patsy Algieri will continue to command Headquarters Company here and Capt. Eugene M. Light will continue in command of Company C.

More Recruitment

Capt. Paul B. Lord, the Army's permanent duty instructor assigned to the battalion here, said a vast amount of work has already been done toward the forming of the pentomic division, and that a meeting was held here earlier this week with staff officers from the area and Baltimore, as well as representatives of the Army Recruiting service from Cumberland and Fairmont.

It will be necessary, he observed, to recruit more men for each unit and present personnel are expressing keen interest in the idea of tank companies.

Each tank company, he stated, is to receive 17 medium tanks, known as M-48. Each weighs about 50,000 pounds and mounts a 90 mm. gun in addition to other armament.

Headquarters Company will be equipped with two M-48 tanks, plus 10 full-track personnel carriers and a number of lesser vehicles, such as jeeps.

This means that there will be 19 M-48 tanks stationed at Cumberland, 17 at Frostburg, 17 at Oakland and 34 at Hagerstown, to round out the battalion's impact power.

The personnel of each tank company is designed to include five officers and 97 enlisted men. Headquarters and Headquarters and Service Company will total 19 officers, four warrant officers and 224 enlisted men.

Special Skills Needed

The tank outfits here will require, Col. Millholland pointed out, many men with special skills and training.

Needed are some 50 radio operators in Headquarters Company alone. Other specialists to be recruited or trained include tank drivers, tank maintenance men, telephone operators and communications specialists, signalmen.

Keyser Man Fatally Hurt In Auto Crash

A 23-year-old Keyser man was killed instantly early yesterday in a one-car accident along the Fort Ashby-Keyser Road.

Victim of the mishap was Robert Dale Urice of RD 2, Keyser, who was pronounced dead on arrival at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser.

Cpl. Evan Moody of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Keyser said the accident occurred on State Route 46 about four miles west of Fort Ashby.

Cpl. Moody said it is believed the victim was riding alone at the time of the crash.

Police said their investigation revealed that Urice was traveling along a straight section of the road when he lost control of his automobile.

Police said the car left the right side of the highway along Patterson Creek and traveled approximately 250 feet at the top of the embankment. At this point police said the vehicle "shot" 52 feet into the air before coming to rest against a large tree near the foot of the embankment.

Police said apparently the only reason the vehicle didn't drop into Patterson Creek was because of its high rate of speed which kept it suspended in air.

The car was demolished and the victim was pinned under the wreckage.

The accident was first discovered around 2 a. m. by Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police who was off duty at the time. Trooper Oliver telephoned Cpl. Moody and an ambulance.

Urice was employed by the Potomac Farms Dairy.

He was a son of Alonzo D. and Margie (Shillingburg) Urice of RD 2, Keyser.

Besides his parents, he is susvived by a son, Robert Dale Urice Jr., at home.

The body was taken to the Rogers Funeral Home in Keyser.
